Bull Calf and Farmer
By God's Grace
Imaginary Gold Basis
Earthquakes in Mexico

— By Arthur Brisbane —

Copyright, 1928, by Star Co.

PROFESSOR CORYLLOS asks the United States to help "end turmoil in the Balkans."

America should tell Professor Coryllos that when the Balkans want to end the turmoil they can do it. Until then, it will not be the business of the United States to end it for them.

The artist, Frost, drew an old farmer starting to educate a young bull calf and harnessing himself and the calf in the same yoke. As he went down hill, dragged by the calf, the farmer said: "Stop us, somebody, darn our fool souls."

The Balkans can stop running down hill to destruction, if they want to stop.

The German and Irish fliers insert the words "Thank God," or "By the grace of God," in every message describing their safe landing through fog and storm across the ocean after thirty-six hours of danger.

The professional atheist, unwilling to believe anything that "has not been proved to him," would find his opinions changing, in a big earthquake, or above the ocean in a fog.

Norway has gone back to the gold basis, the seventeenth country on earth to do so. That basis is more or less of a financial fiction. There is not nearly enough gold on the earth to take care of its "gold basis" currency. Imagination does a good deal of it.

This country, it is said, produced last year less gold by tens of millions than was actually used in art and manufactures, quite apart from any currency needs. If you could make gold artificially, and commercially, you'd get rich, unless your secret were known and gold demonetized.

Severe earthquakes shook Southern Mexico yesterday in Oaxaca and elsewhere. Several towns are believed destroyed and a sound like a cannon shot was heard from the hilltop at Texepec, before the shaking of the earth began.

Tremors were felt as far as Mexico City and doubtless many will connect this earthquake and others recently with the religious trouble in Mexico.

Nothing could be more gratifying to the deeply religious mind than a powerful earthquake, terrifying the enemies of religion. Unfortunately modern earthquakes do not discriminate, and shake down buildings on the just and the unjust.

Testifying that he "got graft" at the exclusive Groton School in Groton, for fixing up cases affecting some of the students, former Police Chief Edward J. "I got $400 there in a period covering about a year and a half," he testified in the course of a long cross-examination by one lawyer after another representing the several defendants.

ATTACK BY POISON PEN FLAYED BY D. A. R. CHIEF

Washington, April 18 (AP)—An anonymous attack upon Mrs. Henry B. Joy of Detroit, one of the candidates for vice-president-general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, prompted a sharp challenge today from Mrs. Alfred J. Brosseau, head of the organization, which is in biennial convention here.

The unsigned note as made public by Mrs. Brosseau, said: "Will your conscience allow you to vote for a woman whose husband did this?" It was attached to a two-year-old newspaper clipping which contended Mrs. Joy's husband had objected to the Volstead act.

FLIERS SEND TO U. S. FOR PROPELLER

Montreal, Que., April 18 (By the Canadian Press).—Fred Melchior, Junkers airplane expert, announced today that he would fly to New York this afternoon to get a propeller for the Bremen, transatlantic plane damaged in landing on Greenly Island. The propeller will be relayed by air to the stranded ship.

Quebec, April 18—A conference planned for today at Murray Bay between Fraulein Herta Junkers and Maj. James Fitzmaurice, Irish transatlantic ace, held the solution of the mystery of relief plans for the Bremen and its two German fliers.

Out of the conference was expected to come definite action in the adoption of two plans.

One was for the Canadian Airways Transportation relief plane to return to Greenly Island and bring Baron Ehrenfried von Huenefeld and Capt. Hermann Koehl to civilization.

The other plan was for the relief plane to take on spare parts Miss Junkers carried in her flight to Montreal, these parts to be used in repairing the Bremen, so that the fliers might carry out their original intention of continuing their flight to New York in their craft.

Miss Junkers arrived at Murray Bay by special train, in order to be at the nearest point which Maj. Fitzmaurice would stop at. The Irish ace was scheduled to hop off today from Clarke City, Que., where he spent the night after flying with Duke Schiller, pilot of the Canadian plane, to that point from Natashquan, Que. Weather conditions for a hop today were perfect.

The former Decimo Club head stood fast to his claim that Reading's intimations had caused him to fear arrest and prosecution in Massachusetts. Under questioning by Atty. Elbridge Anderson, he admitted he had no intention or charge to make that the attorney-general other than definite assurance that its conference would solve the puzzle of varying stories of what was "in the air" for the relief plane and fliers, the outstanding fact was a report of the picking up of a wireless dispatch from Point Amour, Labrador.

BREMEN RELIEF HINGES ON CONFERENCE

Point Amour is the nearest wireless station to Greenly Island.

This dispatch stated that the fliers on the island, because they had been unable to effect the repairs on the Bremen, might decide to take advantage of an offer to fly from the haven of refuge in the Canadian Airways relief plane.

Baffled by storm conditions and guilt, they are declared to have most reached the point where they are willing, if necessary, to abandon their original plan of making the Bremen their own rescue ship.

Schiller has already informed Maj. Fitzmaurice that he will gladly fly to Greenly Island and take off the Baron and Capt. Koehl.

That the Bremen is more seriously damaged than at first stated, was indicated by a wireless dispatch today.

The Junkers craft, making a landing after sighting the island, struck heavily on the ice of the island lake, and swayed dangerously as she sped over 60 feet, with resulting damage to various portions of the plane.

Storm conditions handicapped the two Germans, who were forced for hours at a stretch to bend every effort toward saving the Bremen from disaster in the snowstorms.

These conditions have convinced Canadian experts that the plan of repairing the Bremen at this time is not feasible and that the plan to be adopted must be that of using the Canadian airways craft as the relief plane.

At Murray Bay arrangements have been made for supplying the airways plane with fuel for this return flight to the island, if Miss Junkers and Maj. Fitzmaurice reach a decision.

Fitzmaurice, with Schiller, was forced to spend the night at Clarke City because of a blizzard they ran into after leaving Seven Islands, Que. They had planned to speed on to Murray Bay for the conference with Miss Junkers. Both the pilot and his passenger, the Irish ace, reported they encountered gales of terrific force.

In the first good interview with her, achieved at Murray Bay, Miss Junkers set at rest reports that she planned to fly on to Greenly Island, herself, in the F13—Junkers-built plane, and sister craft of the Bremen.

This was never a part of her intention, she said. Her plane she left at Montreal, together with the spare parts she had carried from New York.

"My purpose is solely now to establish contact with Major Fitzmaurice," she said. "I must learn from him just what conditions are with the Bremen and the fliers at Greenly Island.

"Until I know the facts, I cannot decide anything. Of course, the major's opinion will be vitally important.

"Major Fitzmaurice expected to hop off from Clarke City early this morning for Murray Bay. I have heard Dr. Louis Cuisinier was with them, but I do not believe it. I think he was left on the Island with the Baron and Captain Koehl.

"I feel certain from the messages I have received from both the Baron and Capt. Koehl, that Maj. Fitzmaurice's only mission in this flight is to tell me what the Bremen is actually in need of. Their purpose as they outlined it was to repair the Bremen and to fly her if that 1913.

be possible.

"I of course am ready to place at Maj. Fitzmaurice's disposal the spare parts I brought with me to Montreal. He can return with them to Greenly Island if he wishes to. Then with the Bremen repaired they could take off for New York.

"The Baron and Capt. Koehl had been unable to get our messages to them quickly. They became anxious. Their idea was that Maj. Fitzmaurice by conferring in person could 'stir up things' and get quicker results.

"On the F13 we brought a supply of benzil, a special gas for Junkers planes. We also sent by train a spare set of landing skids, a substitute propeller, tools, and a mechanic. We had various parts in the plane."

Miss Junkers has been making her headquarters at Murray Bay in a sleeper turned over to newspaper and camera men by the Canadian National Railways. Accommodations are limited, and the reporters are some of them sleeping in shifts.

LOST OCEAN FLIERS FOUGHT DEATH IN RAGING BLIZZARD

New York, April 18 (AP)—Fragmentary details from the frozen north, pieced together today, revealed a dramatic story of the transatlantic plane Bremen successfully groping through fog and blizzard for the continent of its destination.

An auspicious start developed at the end into a battle with the elements as the fliers were some 600 miles off their course, due partly to the failure of the plane's lighting system.

For hours the flight was blind. Once the plane was 50 feet from the water. A strange river was seen, then a mountain. At last was sighted what appeared to be a sealing steamer. It proved to be the lighthouse on Greenly Island.

Shortly after midnight eastern standard time last Thursday the Bremen stood fully fueled for her flight on the runway at Baldonnel Airdrome. Capt. Hermann Koehl and Maj. James Fitzmaurice sat at the controls. In a compartment behind sat Baron von Huenefeld, ready to man the fuel pump.

PLACED TRUST IN GOD.'

Capt. Koehl and Maj. Fitzmaurice went to communion before getting in the plane for their great adventure. They took a crucifix of Connemara marble with them. The fliers cabled German friends that they were putting their trust in the hands of God.

After a daring takeoff through a breach in a stone wall the plane was going strong two hours later well over the Atlantic, having passed over Costelle, Galway, at 2:05 a. m. Foggy weather prevailed along the coast because of the heat.

Soon, however, the plane ran into clear weather over the Atlantic. All Thursday morning during the daylight hours the plane traveled westward rapidly.

That night, however, a blizzard swept the ocean. The plane lost altitude in the storm conditions and it was flying very low.

The lighting system failed during the night. The fliers were unable to read their instruments and Capt. Koehl's long experience in night flying in Germany stood them in good stead.

Daybreak gave them opportunity to correct their direction. The weather, however, became worse and worse and it was only with great difficulty that the plane could be kept up.

Off the coast of Newfoundland they struck a heavy fog and began to wander. They tried to fly above it, but at 7000 feet the fog still enveloped them. They descended to within 50 feet of the waves, but had to climb upward again because of the high seas running and threatening to engulf them.

Then they saw land. It was a wooded country and they flew over it, trying in vain to locate their position. Next they flew over a large river which they could not identify. A large mountain loomed in their path. Again the Bremen headed upward and over it.

READY TO SHOOT MATES.

The fuel was rapidly running low and the country over which they were flying offered no opportunity for a forced landing.

Baron von Huenefeld was cold and exhausted. All through the flight he kept his pistol by his side, ready to shoot his companions if worse came to worse.

Finally as despair grew, they saw what they took to be a sealing steamer frozen in the ice. It was the lighthouse on Greenly Island. There was a small pond on the island and the fliers descended.

Hubby Can Make Love in Back Seat if His Wife Drives Car

Los Angeles, Cal., April 18 (AP)—If a woman insists on driving the family auto she isn't entitled to a divorce when her husband makes love to a woman in the back seat.

So a superior court judge ruled in awarding a divorce decree to John Albert Wilkinson. Wilkinson's wife, Mrs. Elsie May Wilkinson, had brought suit for a divorce accusing him of making love to a woman in the rear seat of their car while Mrs. Wilkinson drove. Wilkinson, in a cross-complaint, said his wife had insisted on driving and that she had been more cruel than he.

slumped back of the steering wheel of his car. The door of the garage was partly open.

Mr. Emmons was father of Robert W. ("Bobbie") Emmons, 3d, who captained and played second on the Harvard baseball team half-a-dozen years ago. Another son, Gardner, is also prominent in collegian sport circles.

Mr. Emmons was 55 years old and was born in Boston. At Groton school, where he prepared for Harvard, he captained the football team, and in his senior year at Cambridge he led the Crimson team.

Banking and the brokerage business was selected as his profession when he was graduated. For many years he had had offices at 72 Milk st.

During America's entire participation in the war he served in the United States Navy, entering with the rank of lieutenant and being discharged in February, 1919, with the rank of lieutenant-commander.

Before that he had become noted internationally as a yachtsman. In 1913 he managed the American cup entry of the Vanderbilt Syndicate and won the Astor and Kings' Cup races.

And before that he had been sailed by the late Thomas W. Lawson to manage Lawson's proposed cup defender, the huge craft over whose barring Lawson engaged in a bitter contest with the New York Yacht Club.

At one period in his career, just before going into the navy, Mr. Emmons became a baseball magnate by purchasing the Lynn baseball club franchise and transferring it to Lawrence.

The yachtsman was married in 1916, the year following his Harvard graduation, to Miss Helen Brooks of Boston. The two sons were their only children.

JOHN BANTA WAS NOT ACCUSED BY GRAND JURY

White Plains, N. Y., April 18 (AP)—When Mrs. Gertrude Banta of Boston was indicted here on March 19 by a Grand Jury charged with kidnaping her seven-year-old grandson Edward, the Associated Press erroneously stated that her son, John, had also been indicted with her on the same charge. Examination of the court records today showed that only the mother had been indicted. The Associated Press regrets the error and is glad to make this correction.

BOSTON PLANS TO WELCOME BREMEN CREW

While no definite word was received today by Governor Fuller or Mayor Nichols as to when the crew of the Bremen might be expected in Boston, both officials continued to work on plans for the reception of the distinguished guests.

The Irish and German societies and the Crosscup-Pishon Post of the American Legion also have arranged tentative plans for the reception of the three fliers.

Kurtzon Tippelskirch, German consul here, is co-operating with the various committees. He said today that he would do his utmost to urge the fliers to come here as soon as possible.

ATTORNEY TRIED ON "PLOT" CHARGE

Atty. Samuel Brenner of Boston, indicted with four others on the charge of conspiracy to conceal assets in bankruptcy, went on trial before Judge Brewster and a jury in Federal court today.

Tried to Keep Engagement a Secret, but Someone Told

Less than a month after her divorce became absolute, Mrs. Blanche M. McLaughlin, divorced wife of Peter J. McLaughlin, one of the carbarn bandits, who is now serving a life term in State Prison, has filed intentions to marry Hubert H. Maguire, Watertown pattern maker.

The couple filed the papers at Cambridge City Hall on April 2 and attempted to keep their prospective wedding a secret. They were aided in this by marriage bureau officials there.

Mrs. McLaughlin lives at 163 Western ave., Cambridge, the same address as her fiance. She declared in her intentions that she was a factory worker and was born in Italy. In accordance with the law, she also filed papers of her divorce from McLaughlin.

Whether or not the couple have been married is undetermined. Neither could be found today.

Mrs. McLaughlin was granted a divorce in September, 1927, by Judge Leggatt in Middlesex Probate Court under the penal servitude law. This provides that a husband or wife may be divorced from his or her mate if either is serving five years or more sentence in jail. The divorce became final March 19 of this year.

The McLaughlins were married in 1918 and had one son, Francis J., who was given into custody of his mother.

POLE IS POISED ON TRUCK THAT CUT IT OFF

Car service over most of the Eastern Massachusetts street railway system was threatened with disruption at the peak of the morning rush hour today when a truck sliced off a pole on Broadway, Revere.

Luckily the upper half of the bisected pole remained poised atop a load of crushed stone on the truck, and in this precarious position continued to support the big feed cables.

Police were required to hold in check a crowd which gathered and which was endangered by the heavily charged wires. An emergency crew rushed to the scene to erect another pole.

The truck which figured in the unique accident was driven by Salvatore Mesci of Asti ave., Revere, according to the police, and was owned by the T. F. McCarthy Contracting Company, in front of whose office it was parked. In starting away it struck the pole and besides slicing it in two pieces dragged the bottom section out of the ground.

BAY STATE KIN OF MRS. KNAPP SUBPOENAED

In spite of telephone calls urging them not to accept summons if they could avoid it, according to New York State officials, a brother and sister of Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp, former secretary of state of New York, were served with subpoenas today at their home in Bedford and left for Albany to testify before a grand jury.

They are Charles Hubbell Smith and Miss Julia A. Smith, both sought for questioning in connection with alleged maladministration of the $1,200,000 New York State census fund during Mrs. Knapp's regime.

Investigators of the special attorney-general handling the case before the grand jury at Albany reported that relatives received long-distance telephone calls suggesting that they refuse service. The source of the calls is not definitely known.

Special Atty.-Gen. George Z. Medalie admitted today that Mrs. Helen Smith, another sister, had not been found to be served with a subpoena. He said Mrs. Knapp's mother, Mrs. Ella Smith of Bedford, will not be required to testify, as planned, because of her age. Mrs. Mary Bodkin of Bedford, a sister of Mrs. Knapp, has been served, but is too ill to leave home, it was said.

Charles Hubbell Smith is listed on the census payroll for $4711, while Mrs. Helen Smith, his wife, is listed for $2420; Mrs. Ella Smith, $2319, and a nephew, $2270. Clara Blanche Knapp, step-daughter of the accused woman and an instructor at Middlebury College, listed as having received $5361, will testify Monday before the grand jury.

CAN'T SAY WHY HE SLEW AUNT

Lewiston, Me., April 18 (AP)—Alfred Gordon, 22, at the Central Maine General Hospital, receiving treatment for a self-inflicted revolver wound in the forehead, will live, it was believed today, to face the charge of murdering his aunt, Mrs. Margaret Wing, 22, at the home of Gordon's step-father, Warren Rideout.

The husband of the dead woman, as well as other members of the Wing and Rideout families, whose homes adjoin, were of the opinion that Gordon's mind was warped by drinking. The wounded man, under police guard, readily admitted, police said, shooting his aunt, but refused to give any motive.

"You have killed me!" Gordon said she screamed as the first bullet struck her. He pressed the trigger again as she fell, he said. A third shot was fired, but this bullet missed its mark. Then he shoved the revolver against his own forehead, and toppled over, unconscious, from a bullet which pierced the frontal bone, coming out just over the left temple.

GIRL KILLED IN AUTO CRASH

Police today investigated the auto crash in Burlington which cost the life of Miss Anna Hamilton, 25, of 23 Foster st., West Newton.

Accused of manslaughter in connection with the girl's death is Herbert Warren, 37, father of three children, and an auto salesman, was released in $1000 bonds. Police also booked him for charges of driving while intoxicated, and of driving so as to endanger life.

The auto struck a stone wall, turned over, and then caught fire.

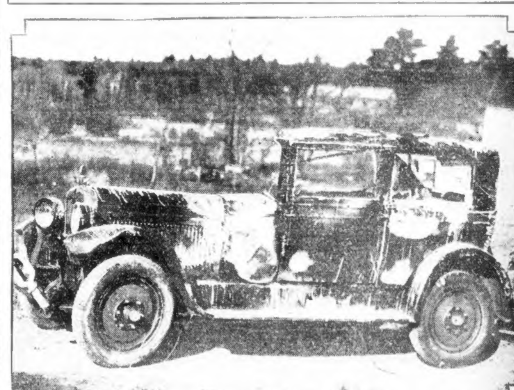

According to a story given out by the Woburn police, Warren said he had met the young woman shortly before the accident, for the first time, and declared he was demonstrating the car when the tragedy occurred. Police said Warren told them she was a prospective purchaser.

Warren, who escaped with minor bruises, was arrested at the scene of the crash by Deputy Sheriff Elmer L. LaRochelle of Lowell.

The automobile, a sedan, was traveling along the thoroughfare, which is the main highway to Lowell from Boston, through Arlington and Winchester.

The automobile went around a curve, where there have been numerous accidents, then raced off the side of the road on the right hand side into sand and dirt on the edge. The machine traveled 25 feet, then hit the stone wall.

ATTY.-GEN. READING EXPECTED TO TESTIFY IN OWN DEFENSE

FORTY WITNESSES CALLED TO FOLLOW STATE'S EVIDENCE

ever had received anything from the funds which he turned in to be placed in escrow.

"Did you pay anything to Reading not included in the receipt from Deitz (assistant treasurer of Decimo?" he was asked.

"Not to the best of my recollection," Monjar answered.

PRESSED BY HIS CREDITORS

Persisting, Attorney Elbridge Anderson asked: "Do you make any charge or intimation that Reading ever took a cent from anything you turned over to Deitz?"

"I do not," Monjar replied.

Monjar admitted that when the Decimo Club was formed in 1924 he had just passed through a period of failing circumstances and was trying to make adjustment with his creditors. He denied he had gone into bankruptcy.

There were several touches of humor in the day's proceedings, once when Monjar said the first meeting of the Decimo organizers was held in the "Pig and Whistle" in San Francisco in 1924, and again when he declined an invitation to show the committee how Reading used his eyes while "threatening him."

"I don't think I could draw of picture of it," Monjar said.

STILL IN FEAR

Q.—You are not in any fear now, are you? A.—To a certain extent I am right now.

It seemed unlikely that the prosecution could finish its case today. Three more witnesses were to be heard before the defense calls the 40 or more witnesses it will put on for Reading next week.

Under fire from Atty. Anderson, Monjar denied he had ever said he wanted to get together with Joseph D. Webster, former cub vice-president, and destroy all correspondence that had passed between them regarding the syndicate, which Webster testified, Monjar had told him was behind the Decimo Club.

Q.—You said you wanted to get together and destroy all correspondence in regard to that matter? A.—I did not.

Q.—Didn't you say you would get your personal files and weed out all such letters and destroy them? A.—I certainly did.

Q.—Did not that relate to the letter of July 16? A.—It did not.

HAD NO COPY OF REPORT

He referred to membership and "other things," Monjar said.

Regarding the conference in October, at which Reading demanded he turn over stocks and bonds, Monjar said he never received a stenographic report. Atty. Anderson conducted his questioning while holding what purported to be a coup of this stenographic report.

Q.—Do I understand that you were afraid because of something Reading had said to you? A.—It was.

Q.—Between May 19 and October 19, when the board meeting was held, did you consult counsel in connection with possible prosecution in Massachusetts? A.—I did not.

Q.—You attended that board meeting of your own accord, did you not? A.—Not exactly of my own accord.

Q.—Were you arrested? A.—I was not.

Q.—And did you say to those gentlemen who attended that meeting: "Here are the bonds." A.—Yes.

BONDS WORTH $125,000

Q.—Do you now say that you said anything to them to the effect that these bonds were worth $125,000? A.—I certainly did.

Q.—Did you say at that meeting: "If there is one single dollar that I owe Decimo, I am willing to pay it back to the last penny!" A.—I may have said that in substance.

Q.—Did you say: "Here is another check for $3260 that I did not deposit?" A.—Yes.

Q.—And did you turn it over to them? A.—Yes.

"It looks to me as if you were trying to put something over." Monjar was quoted as having told Reading at the meeting.

Q.—Were you asked this question: "Were these bonds registered?" and did you say no? A.—Yes.

CONSIDERED MONEY HIS.

Monjar said he considered the money his own and that it came from the sale of Apasco stock, $75,000 of it having been put into the Webster Co., and $50,000 in the Drew Tailoring.

Q.—Who was present at the meeting? A.—Ten men.

Q.—Who were they? A.—Messrs. Wilson, Magee, Taggart, Cochrane, Randolph, Hallman, Ward, Phillips, Johnson and Schmidt.

Q.—Did you have an account of the money you received from Decimo members and how you spent it? A.—In my check book.

Q.—Did you make an accounting to anyone? A.—I made an accounting of a poritno of it.

NO ACCOUNTING MADE.

Q.—Up to the present time you haven't given an accounting of expenditures of that money to anyone, have you? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Was this question put: "We are trying to deal squarely with you?" A.—Probably.

Anderson asked Monjar if he had admitted taking money from the Decimo Club and putting it into Apasco and the Webster organization. Monjar said the transcript did not record it correctly, that it was his own money he had put into the corporations.

Several times during the examination the witness denied making statements accredited to him the transcript held by Anderson. He said the words wer garbled and the meanings confused.

HELD BOARD'S RESIGNATIONS

Q.—At the time the old board and officers were elected, did you procure from them undated resignations? A.—I did.

Q.—Every one of the officers and members of the board signed such an agreement and resignation, did they not? A.—Yes, including myself.

The escrow agreement, under which Monjar turned over stocks and bonds to Reading, was dictated by Reading, Monjar said, and given to him by Magee.

Q.—After that meeting was there another meeting on November 12, 1927? A.—There may have been. I think there was about that date.

Q.—Remember who was present? A.—I do not.

Monjar said he thought the board, with the exception of Schmidt, was present at this second meeting, also a stenographer.

ABOUT AUDIT OF BOOKS

Q—There was a report of an audit of your books, wasn't there? A—I don't believe so.

Q—Reading was there at that meeting? A—I can't remember that he was.

Q—At that meeting of Nov. 12, they were attempting to get from you an accounting of how you spent $481,000 weren't they? A—Yes.

Q—And they didn't get it, did they? A—They didn't.

Q—And all you accounted for to the committee was $10,000 you expended for Decimo? A—They knew exactly how $390,000 had been spent for the benefit of the club.

Q—When you started with Decimo, you started to make money out of it, didnt' you? A—I did not.

TELLS OF HIS CIRCUMSTANCES

Q—You had been in failing circumstances, hadn't you? A—Yes, for about a year.

Q.—Did you go into bankruptcy? A.—No.

Q.—Were you trying to settle with your creditors? A.—Yes.

Monjar said his first contract with Decimo, signed by Webster and others, was dated Nov. 24, 1924, and called for the payment to him of $20 for each member. He renewed the contract, he said, on Dec. 7, 1925.

Q.—The first contract was with Decimo when it was not incorporated. Is that correct? A.—Yes.

Q.—The second was with the organization when it was incorporated? A.—Yes. Webster and others signed the second contract, Monjar said.

ANOTHER CONTRACT.

Q.—You spoke of another contract; where is that? A.—It's on its way. It was supposed to have been mailed today.

Q.—One of those contracts called for a payment to you of $5 per member? A.—Yes.

Q.—And another of $12.50 a member? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you have any practical working plans in 1924 with regard to Decimo? A.—Yes.

Q.—Were they written out? A.—No.

Q.—Did you ever have any practical working plans written, typed or printed? A.—No.

Q.—And those practical working plans were all in your head? A.—They were.

Q.—In 1924 did you tell the others what those plans were? A.—Yes.

Q.—What did you tell them? A.—It would take about three weeks to tell you that. (There was general laughter and Chairman James said: "Well, I guess it won't be necessary to do that.")

FOR DECIMO MEMBERS.

Q.—How about the $390,000 you accounted for? How was it spent? A.—I didn't account for that. I told you the national board knew it was spent for Decimo members.

Q.—These Apasco bonds and stocks are some of the things you brought suit to recover and you now claim them as your own? A.—Yes, sir. I always claimed they were my own.

Q.—Didn't you say that the $390,000 had been spent for Decimo members? A.—I was a Decimo member.

Atty. Anderson: Oh, I see.

Anderson went into the alleged threats made by Reading against Monjar.

Q.—You did not mention it until you brought suit against various members in an attempt to get back these things you mentioned? A.—I did not.

VERIFIES TRANSCRIPT.

A report purporting to be that of a conversation which took place between Reading and Monjar at a meeting of the national board of directors of Decimo on Nov. 12 was then introduced by Anderson. Monjar looked it over and said the transcript was substantially a true report of what occurred.

Anderson read from the report a statement of Reading: "We are intending to find out if $465,000 was the amount actually spent by you for Decimo purposes? We are interested in an accounting between you and the club."

Q.—And all you did was because of a so-called threat made by the Attorney-General between June 6 and June 20? A.—That is not exactly so.

WHAT MADE HIM ACT

Q.—You now say it was in October that the threat was made that caused you to act as you did? A.—I say it was the threat made October 18 by Mr. Reading that caused me to act. It was the threat of October 18 which caused me to act subject to previous happenings.

Q.—Did any of the money which you had in your possession in 1927 come from Massachusetts? A.—Not to my knowledge.

Q.—Do you know of any claim that the State of Massachusetts had on the money you had gotten in that way? A.—I do not.

Q.—When was it Atty.-Gen. Reading said that if you wanted to fight, they'd fight so that you'd wish you'd jumped into the Atlantic ocean? A.—December 8.

Q.—That was after you had turned over everything? A.—I hadn't turned it over. The assignment was to be signed that day.

GOT THE "EVIL EYE" OCT. 18

Q.—When was it the attorney-general cast the evil eye on you? A.—Oct. 18.

Q.—So it was th eye of the attorney-general on Oct. 18 that caused you to act? A.—Partly. It caused many people to act.

Q.—How did he use his eyes? I don't suppose you could show the committee just how he used them, could you? A.—I don't think I could draw a picture of it.

Q.—You are not in any fear now, are you? A.—To a certain extent I am right now.

Q.—You are not afraid of being indicted in Massachusetts for being indicted in New York are you? A.—I am not afraid of being indicted in Massachusetts now.

Q.—Do you make any charge or intimation that Reading ever took a cent from anything you turned over to Deitz? A.—I do not.

Woman Sends Reward to Heroes of the Arctic

Washington, April 18 (AP)—The thermometer stood at 50 below zero. But Wilbur Jewell merely pulled down his earmuffs tighter and set out from Chatanika, Alaska, to deliver letters of Christmas greeting to the people of Circle. Before he got there he had severely frozen his hands and feet.

Sitting in her living room by the fire in a comfortable home in Norwalk, Ct., a woman read in the newspapers about Jewell's sacrifice and decided he ought to be rewarded.

Then, some time later, she also read about Maurice O'Leary, another Alaskan carrier of mails; how he froze his hands and feet rescuing his horse which broke through the ice while they were making their lonely route, and had to have some of his fingers amputated. And the story of Bert Thorson also moved her. Thorson battled blizzard-swept plains to deliver his mail to two Arctic outposts.

So this Connecticut woman sent Postmaster-General New a check for $250 with a letter containing fine sentiments.

Mr. New has mailed the check to Alaska to be divided among the three carriers. The name of the donor will not be made public.

FORMER CHIEF BARES GRAFT IN RUM CASE

ness. His story on the witness stand has not spared his own reputation, and today, before a thronged courtroom, he branded himself an extortioner while under ruthless grilling.

He admitted receiving money steadily from a Mrs. Boynton, said to be a wealthy woman, and said he knew she was an enemy of Selectman Frank A. Torrey, one of the defendants whom Leavitt gave a leading role in his story of alleged graft.

"Were you always a grafter?" the witness was asked point blank by Atty. Edward J. Tierney, counsel for John H. Trayne, former selectman and present highway department head. "No, not always," replied Leavitt.

DENIES BLACKMAILING.

Leavitt said he had been police chief at Lexington and Ipswich and had done other police work before going to Groton to seek the job of chief, with recommandations from two ministers.

"You didn't tellu them you were a crook, did you?" he was asked, and replied, "No."

"You lie at times, don't you?"

"When it means my job or living," retorted Leavitt.

"You have committed blackmail, haven't you?"

"No, I wouldn't call it blackmail."

"What would you call it?"

"Extortion."

"Have you reformed?" "I would have quite a task, I guess."

"Well, what brings you here, reform or vengeance?" "I won't say that either does."

"Do you expect punishment for the crimes you admit having committed?"

"I don't know why I should not be punished."

TELLS OF GETTING MONEY.

Asked if Mrs. Boynton asked him to ruin Torrey, he denied it. He said he knew that Mrs. Boynton's alleged enmity for Torrey had something to do with a $100,000 case. He admitted nobody saw him getting money from Trayne, but declared he got $100 four or five times, at weekly intervals, and understood it came from bootleggers "on McKeen's place."

Leavitt admitted lying to the Massachusetts Public Works Commission in a case referred to as the Adams case regarding which he had previously testified to getting a license restored "by going over Goodwin's head."

He declared when he went to Groton for the chief's job he had a recommendation from former Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank A. Goodwin, as well as from the ministers.

WHAT BANKBOOKS SHOW

Cross-examined by Judge John M. Maloney of Ayer, counsel for Torrey, the witness said that while at Groton he had no other source of income. He admitted that two bankbooks which he had handed over to Judge Maloney showed balances totaling $3500 at the Townsend Bank and the Old Colony Trust Company in his name.

"What's this $350 deposit on last Sept. 20?" he was asked. "From bootleggers," replied Leavitt. He gave the same reply regarding deposits of $160, $65 and $40. Then he was queried about four deposits last October totaling $556, and he said: "I should say those represent money from Mrs. Boynton."

Another deposit of $82 he said came from the same source and others, aggregating $95, came from Mrs. Boynton or her sister.

"You worked for her?" he was asked, replying, "No, she either lent me or gave me the money."

DEPENDED ON TORREY.

"Did you tell Selectman Torrey you had so much on him he didn't dare fire you?"

"No, I found out there was a deal on foot by Mr. Call and Mr. Knapp, selectmen, to do a job on me and I said to Torrey, 'Frank, you played the game with me and I want you to favor me. I'll be damned if I'll le you toss me. I am going to the town meeting and tell the voters what kind of men you are.'"

Leavitt testified that Torrey told him he was with him, but later he heard Torrey was not going to get Call to favor him, if Call was elected, and so he went to the town meeting and did what he had threatened.

He admitted being now "unfriendly" toward Torrey and also admitted the only money he ever got from Torrey was $35, which he said was in connection with "the Whiting case."

Leavitt said he is 36 years old, was born in Rowley and worked in a restaurant before he took up police work. In going to Groton he said he represented himself as "a competent and efficient police officer."

PEARSON HITS AT CROSSING ABOLITION

Abolition of grade crossings and decrease of freight rates were frowned upon by Pres. Pearson at the stockholders' meeting of the New Haven Railroad at New Haven today.

Pres. Pearson warned the stockholders the road is not yet completely rehabilitated, adding, "the continued sapping of net income from increased expenses or fixed charges, or from decreased revenues, will make an anaemic railroad and in the end a starved railroad."

He referred to the 5¾ per cent rate of return fixed by the Interstate Commerce Commission, and declared that during the last few years the road has not nearly earned the rate of return. In this connection he said:

CITES FEW ACCIDENTS

"If only one-half of the benefits which have resulted from efficiency and economy could have been retained for the benefit of stockholders, satisfactory dividends could have been paid. But due to the fact that expenses have increased more rapidly than revenues, the benefits accomplished by efficiency and economy have been largely lost."

In regard to grade crossings, he pointed out that in spite of heavily increased motor traffic on the highways, accidents have been comparatively few.

"An accepted method of protecting highways crossing each other," he said, "is by flashing light or other visible lights, operating as a satisfactory safeguard to the public who exercise ordinary care.

"LET PUBLIC AID."

"It would seem that the same protection at a railroad crossing should be sufficient to safeguard the same driving and walking public. They should exercise at least as much care in approaching a railroad crossing as in approaching any other highway crossing.

"It would seem that, inasmuch as such railroad crossings have become more dangerous because of increased highway travel, and usually with a decrease in the number of trains, a large part of such installation should be borne by the driving and riding public who are to be protected."

MRS. COOLIDGE'S MOTHER SUFFERS NEW RELAPSE

Northampton, April 18 (INS)—Mrs. Lemira Goodhue, mother of Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, ill with influenza at Dickinson-Cooley Hospital, was reported "in not so good condition" today. She spent a restless night and her condition was causing concern. The hospital is in telephonic communication with the White House, and it is thought Mrs. Coolidge may return to the bedside of her mother.

40 MILL GIRLS IN 'PEACEFUL' STRIKE BREAK

By BERT FORD

New Bedford, April 18—The first break in the big textile strike came today when 40 girl operatives returned to work in the Nemasket Mill to finish a special order.

No attempt was made to molest the girls.

Another feature was the paying off of 700 men and women strikers at the Page Mill in as orderly a fashion as if no strike was in progress.

Friction was so acute today, however, that many policemen were assigned to Bristol Arena during the mass meeting staged by the so-called Communist group known as the Textile Mills Committee."

MURDOCH PROTESTS.

The 26,000 strikers had been warned by local leaders of the American Federation of Textile Operatives to shun the radical meeting. Repudiated by the general strike committee, William G. Murdoch of Providence and his fellowers issued a defi.

"We're going through with our mass meeting at any cost," said Murdoch.

"The opposition can't scare us. We have been warned of interference. If it comes we shall be ready for it.

"But we are not looking for trouble. On the contrary, we are here to help the strikers. The union leaders shouldn't expect to monopolize the field.

TO AID UNSKILLED.

"With 27,000 mill operatives unorganized we feel that there is need for our cooperation. This isn't a matter of individual feeling or glory. Individually the union leaders are undoubtedly splendid fellows. We have no quarrel with them.

"But our job is to assist the skilled and the unskilled workers. The unskilled pull down the skilled workers and by the same process the skilled workers tend to keep down the wages of the unskilled. We're not trying to 'horn in' as accused, nor are we masquerading. We have an organization of 600 in this city and had done considerable missionary work before this strike was called. We have a perfect right to be here."

Fred Beal of Lawrence presided at the mass meeting. The speakers were Murdoch, Gus Deak of Passaic, former Representative James P. Reid of Providence, Julia Stuart Points, and others.

SMITH LEADS IN DELEGATIONS; 326 OF 446

Washington, April 18 (INS)—The commanding lead which Governor Al Smith is piling up in his march toward the Democratic nomination at Houston was exemplified today by the compilation of a table showing that of the 446 delegates thus far selected he has at least 326.

If he can maintain this ratio in the primary and convention-filled weeks ahead, his nomination at Houston is assured.

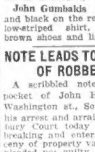

The Houston convention is 10 weeks ahead. Thus far 15 states and three territories have chosen their delegates, either through primaries, pledges or understandings. They will comprise 21 of 64 delegations to sit in at Houston.

While there is some dispute between the Smith and Reed forces over the exact lineup, in seven states, notably in Oklahoma and Arkansas, information is such that the following table is believed substantially accurate:

JOHNNY GUMBAKIS, 14, MISSING FROM S. BOSTON

Johnnie Gumbakis of South Boston has no school this week, but he hasn't been much in evidence about the house, because Johnnie wandered off on Monday. Today his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Gumbakis of 31A 1 st., asked police and the newspapers to aid in a search for the 14-year-old boy.

John Gumbakis

Johnnie has light yellow hair, a light complexion, blue eyes, is five feet tall and weighs 115 pounds. He wore a brown jacket that was red and black on the reverse side; a yellow-striped shirt, blue overalls, brown shoes and light gray hat.

NOTE LEADS TO ARREST OF ROBBERY SUSPECT

A scribbled note found in the pocket of John H. McCarthy of Washington st., South End, led to his arrest and arraignment in Roxbury Court today on a charge of breaking and entering and the larceny of property valued at $300. He pleaded not guilty and was held in bonds of $7000 until May 2.

McCarthy was already under arrest for a break in a Chinese laundry in the South End. Upon searching his clothes police found a piece of paper upon which was written "11 Copeland st., Suite 2." Investigation proved it to be the home of Anna Craig, where a burglar visited a short time before the South End break. McCarthy has a long criminal record, according to police.

RUG-MAKING IN PAINE WINDOW

An educational motion picture is attracting much attention in connection with a window display of well-known rugs by the Paine Furniture Company.

The foreground of the window shows the various grades of wools and yarns used in making the rugs. There are wools from nearly all the leading wool producing countries of the world. In the background are miniature looms that show the process of weaving.

The outstanding feature of the display is a motion picture which starts in at the beginning, the growing of the wool, and depicts in sequence every process of manufacture until the finished product is placed in the home.

The picture will be run every afternoon and evening this week except Thursday. It will be followed by other interesting educational pictures correlating with window displays. This is the first time Paine Furniture Company has shown a moving picture in their windows or elsewhere.

STANDARD OIL SUES BAY STATE FOR $62,361 TAX

The Standard Oil Company of New York today filed a petition in the Supreme Court against the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, seeking to recover $62,361.49 paid on Oct. 19, 1927, as an excise tax, claiming it was illegally assessed. The petitioner says it is largely engaged in interstate business and foreign commerce and its office in Boston is used for business carried on outside the commonwealth.

TEN MILLIONS TO BE PAID BY ARMOURS

Chicago, April 18 (AP)—The widow and daughter of J. Ogden Armour voluntarily will pay $10,000,000 of their personal fortunes to settle the debts of the packer, it was learned today.

At his death, Armour owed $18,000,000 to Armour & Co., of whose board he was chairman, and had assumed liability for the payment of $7,000,000 worth of bonds of the Sutter Basin Company, a California land enterprise.

In addition to the sum of $10,000,000, it was indicated that all marketable securities of the Armour estate would be used in the settlement, paying the debt to Armour Co. in full and furnishing capital for reorganization of the Sutter Basin Co.

In financial circles it was said there was no precedent for the action of Mrs. Armour and her daughter, Mrs. Lolita Armour Mitchell.

Bishop J. E. Dickey Dead

Louisville, Ky., April 18 (INS)—After an illness of several weeks, Bishop James Edward Dickey, 63, of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, was dead in a hospital here today.

BAR DENBY OFF STAND IN TRIAL OF SINCLAIR

Washington, April 18 (AP)—The government won an important point in the trial of Harry F. Sinclair today when Edwin Denby, former Secretary of the Navy, was prevented from testifying as a witness for the defense.

The defense wanted to show that the plan to lease Teapot Dome was initiated by the Navy department and that Sinclair and Albert B. Fall were innocent of conspiracy.

Owen J. Roberts, government prosecutor, objected to Denby's testimony on the ground that nothing he had said or done had taken place in the presence of Fall and the objection was sustained. The former Naval secretary was on the stand only a few minutes.

The defense, however, has placed in the record the testimony of Capt. J. K. Robison, who, as chief engineer of the Navy, handled the lease negotiations for his department.

He told the jury that Denby had directed the oil reserve be leased as a unit.

Robison on cross-examination, however, said the actual lease negotiations had been carried out altogether by Fall.

The witness agreed that the negotiations had been carried on with Sinclair by Fall and reported to him as a representative of the navy. The witness previously had testified that Denby directed the leasing of the oil reserve as a unit since Robison's advice and that this decision had been transmitted to Fall.

The cross-examination was marked by clashes between Roberts and Robison, and defense counsel frequently objected to Roberts' method of examination. Robison said he knew Sinclair had enjoyed poker with him, and had been his guest at a New York club at about the time an important supplementary agreement on the lease was signed.

Robison, who previously had testified that the Texas Company proposal for the lease was not as good as the one accepted, admitted he had misunderstood a telegram from Avon L. Beaty, then president of the Texas concern. Roberts read the telegram and Robison testified he had now changed his mind. It had to do with grades of navy bunker oil.

Drinking at Brown Is Scored in Editorial

Providence, R. I., April 18 (AP)—The Brown Daily Herald today says in an editorial that the practice of "drinking and drunkenness at university social events on this campus" has "all but killed the social prestige which Brown once held for years among Eastern colleges." The basis of the editorial is an appeal to the undergraduates not to spoil by overdrinking what is anticipated as the best junior prom in recent years, to be held this year in the new university gymnasium.

Says the Herald editorial: "Brown men on limited trains are regarded as being out of place when they are not found in the club bar beside a bottle of ginger ale and cracked ice. The situation has grown until too many men on the hill are dubious about attending social events at the university because of offensive actions of the habitues of the stag lines."

SIX MONTHS' HONEYMOON ENDS IN SEPARATION

Hollywood, Cal., April 18 (AP)—Five months after their marriage in New York Louise Brooks, actress, and Edward Sutherland, motion picture director, waited for their honeymoon. When Sutherland would be directing a picture in Hollywood or New York, she would be acting in New York or Hollywood. Six months ago they were at last able to open a home here. Yesterday they separated. Miss Brooks moving into a Beverly Hills apartment. Neither would comment on the cause of the separation.

BARES HOW KLAN WAS INJECTED INTO MAINE POLITICS

STEPHENSON TELLS OF VISIT TO PINE TREE STATE

Past chapters of this remarkable series of revelations of activities of the Ku Klux Klan by David C. Stephenson, former grand dragon of the Klan in Indiana, have told of the origin and early history of the order and the methods by which later administrations are avowed of character assassination, even physical murder, in their fight for power. H' ventures his revelations today, and deals especially with the Klan in Maine.

(Copyright, 1928, by the Boston Evening American and International News Service. Reproduction in Whole or Part Absolutely Prohibited.)

Chicago, Ill., April 18—In today's chapter, David C. Stephenson reveals, from what he declares is personal knowledge, the tremendous ramifications of the klan at its peak—5,000,0000 members and an annual income of between fifty and sixty millions of dollars.

Of all this money, he insists, there was never made a single accounting.

In the article referring to a magazine article quoted into the records we find that: "Throughout the territory where our influence is active, we can point to a steady rise in the character of public officials, an increased respect for law and order, and a return of governmental power into the hands of men and women of American character and instincts."

In the State of Indiana, where without a doubt their power is greater than any other place in America, law and order has so broken down and disrespect for the law so pronounced that there are more men imprisoned in Jails in the State of Indiana today than there have been before in her history.

The character of her state officials both elected and appointed is lower than it has ever been before in her history. For the first time in her history, the will of the people has been absolutely subordinated to the arrogant defiance of vested greed, graft and corruption. She has under indictment today more officials than ever before in the history of the commonwealth.

CONFESSION OF DEFEAT

When the whole State of Indiana was clamoring in 1926 for an opportunity to learn the truth about the gigantic crimes against the taxpayers, one of the most despised klan vassals stood before 20 or 30 newspapermen and said, "To hell with the people, we are running this place," referring to his activity in preventing exposure of crimes against the taxpayers.

The meaning of the article when it says, "We can point to a steady rise in the character of public officials" is the expression of men who are bidding to keep up their courage.

It is a confession of a national defeat, and is an effort to perpetuate the most ridiculous hopes upon the people that has ever been attempted in the history of the country. The truth of the matter is that not a single individual who was once a member of the klan and has since retired, would in any respect permit himself to be associated with any program supported by the klan.

The very fact that the klan is favorable to the candidacy of an individual in the State of Indiana is sufficient reason to justify all of the former membership from turning against that candidate in blind prejudice.

STRENGTH OF KLAN

Q.—What was the relative strength of the plaintiff corporation at its highest peak in the various states from your intimate knowledge gathered from your intimate knowledge and close experience with the Klan. A.—I cannot give the exact figures in all the states. The figures given to me vary from $1,000,000 to $20,000,000; if they were asked for an accounting of the funds of the organization the membership was anywhere from 300,000 to 1,000,000. If they were talking about the political strength of the organization, the figures ran as high as 20,000,000.

Perhaps the way to answer that most accurately, would be to give you the approximate figures in the state over which I had control. At the peak in Indiana, or at the time of my resignation, there were approximately 315,000 men, women and junior members of the Klan. There was in the neighborhood of 350,000 men, women and junior members in the Klan in the State of Ohio.

The State of Pennsylvania probably ran a little over that, the final figure, however, was slightly below that. I believe there were around 280,000, the final figures; but it is my opinion the membership was around 320,000 in the State of Pennsylvania.

In New Jersey the membership at its peak was 60,000. In New York and all the northeast states of the Union there were probably 200,000 members.

THE KLAN IN MAINE

Illinois was slightly below Indiana, Michigan was about the same as Indiana, and Wisconsin was probably 80,000 at its peak.

I think at the peak of the membership in Maine, there were about 4,500 members. I have at this time an accurate record of the entire membership in the State of Maine six months after a political fight occurred.

At the time that the fight occurred I was in charge of the State of Maine or it came in one of the states over which I had control. I went there personally and investigated the conditions surrounding that fight. The Klan element was injected into it by an inexperienced individual who had charge of the state under me, a man sent to me and I in turn sent him to Maine because this was the most remote section of the United States I could send him to and in that way dispose of an irresponsible man.

The Maine situation was one of those that often developed at that time when the press of the country was eager for news of the Klan and could find none and wherever some individual became publicity drunk and went to the press with statements he succeeded in attracting attention and in that respect blow the Maine campaign had an element of the Klan injected into it.

Q.—State whether or not you block the number of Klansmen that were enlisted in the entire United States. A.—I only know what I was told. It was represented to me that the membership at its peak was a little over five million.

FINANCES OF KLAN

Q.—Did they give the plaintiff corporation any accurate financial statement? A.—No, never, a financial statement to my knowledge. There was, however, a statement made up in general terms and published to the nation for the purpose of creating the impression that an accurate detailed accounting was being made of the finances.

Q.—Can you give with any degree of accuracy the amount of money that has been taken into the Klan from its foundation up to the time you severed your connection with the Klan? A.—Between $50,000,000 and $60,000,000 dollars would be reasonably accurate.

Q.—Then the estimates that have been given variously throughout the country at one-half billion dollars is very much exaggerated? A.—I would regard that as gross exaggeration or statement of some uninformed person who relied upon mere rumor.

Q.—Have the funds under the present regime ever been diverted to charter purposes? A.—By charter purposes do you mean the declared purposes of the Klan?

Q.—Yes. A.—So far as I know there has never been any money expended by the officials of the Klan to carry out the declared purposes of the Klan.

Q.—For what purpose had the funds collected been expended? A.—They have been expended for the purpose of building up political fences and for the purpose of establishing connections with men situated in strategic positions where they could obtain money by grafting in the various states.

Q.—Stephenson, you have made some positive statements in the course of your testimony regarding matters of importance pertaining to the plaintiff corporation. Are your answers here based upon actual knowledge on your part, obtained by you while officially connected with the plaintiff corporation in the manner you have described? A.—Yes, sir. My answers are all based on definite personal knowledge either gained by actual observation of the matter about which I have testified or by having been told the matters about which I have testified.

"AL" SMITH'S CASE

I would regard myself as an absolute traitor to my country if I were to engage in any activity that had for its purpose coercion, threat or duress to drive Al Smith out of the race as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for President in 1928. At no time have I harbored the opinion that religion could ever be a basis of qualification for public office.

If the Man of Galilee were here today (who is the spiritual leader of the klan) He would cry out in horror and indignation at the efforts of one group of Christians who cut the throats of another. He would doubtless be grieved to know that some pose as His agents on earth and mock His teachings by denouncing and proscribing Smith who is also a devotee to the teachings of Jesus Christ.

There was not anything in the program of the klan as proclaimed by its founder, Colonel Simmons, that proscribed any man in any capacity or in any ambition of life because of his religious belief.

And certainly Colonel Simmons would not insult the intelligence of American citizens by asking them to denounce a fellow Christian especially after he had been thrice honored by the greatest State in the Union in his election as Governor of New York.

Follow this amazing expose of the Klan by one of its own chiefs in Friday's Boston Evening American. Details of murders, floggings, lynchings and of men burned alive will be fully revealed in this series.

Inexperienced Man Ruled Maine Klan, Stephenson Says

Revealing facts about the Ku Klux Klan in Maine, David C. Stephenson has this to say of the man who had charge of the klan in Maine:

"The klan element was injected into a Maine political fight by an inexperienced individual who had charge of the state under me, a man sent to me and I in turn sent him to Maine because this was the most remote place I could send him to and in that way dispose of an irresponsible man."

[DO]N'T DELAY; WRITE THAT [BI]RTHDAY LETTER TODAY

[…] are all those happy boys [here]s?" asked a patron at [the St]ate Theater.

"[They] are special birthday guests [of the B]oston Evening American," [said t]he usher.

[The] same question is asked by [the] patrons every day of the [week], and all because those boys [and] girls took the time to write to [the] Birthday Editor, telling him [wh]y they are glad their birthday [ha]ppened to fall on the date it did.

Perhaps the reason why you [ha]ven't written before is that you [ha]ve been under the impression that [it] is a contest. It isn't really that. [A]ll you have to do is to think of some reason which makes you pleased that you were born on a certain date. Twenty-five words is usually ample to tell the story.

There are only two rules to govern you. One is, that you must not be more than 16 years old; the other is that you must mail your letter during the week which ends with your birthday.

Don't forget that an attractive birthday card also comes to you with your theater invitation. Let all your chums see that you are capable of doing something that will bring you reward. Letters should be mailed to the Birthday Editor, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston.

CHINESE BATTLE 400-MI. FRONT

London, April 18 (INS)—War clouds loomed darker over the Chinese horizon today.

Sanguinary engagements between the Nationalists and Northerners are being fought along a 400-mile front, according to a dispatch to the Daily Express from its Tokio correspondent.

British vessels have been fired upon nine miles below Hankow, according to a dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Co. from Hong Kong.

The Nationalists are reported to be advancing along the entire battle line. In the Province of Shantung, the Northerners are said to be retreating in wild disorder with heavy losses, Kwangsi troops are reported to have captured Leng Cheng.

LEAGUE FAILS IN WAR ON DRUGS

Geneva Switzerland, April 18 (AP)—The morphine evil is increasing throughout the world despite the activities of the League of Nations to curb it, in the opinion of several speakers at today's session of the opium commission.

The German delegates estimated the international morphine output from 1921 to 1926 at from 56 to 66 tons, while Signor Cavazoni, Italy's spokesman on the commission, who is leading the fight for effective international control, asserted that morphine manufacture doubled during the period when the commission was concentrating the fight.

M. Benler, a French expert, who is attached to the commission, threatened to resign unless something is done to stop smuggling opium out of China.

SHORTEN TIME ON LONG RUN

John H. Kenney, New England passenger agent, Great Northern Railway, announces that effective May 6, the Great Northern Railway will shorten the running time of its transcontinental train—the new Oriental Limited between Chicago and Seattle, Portland and other Pacific Northwest cities.

Kenney says, "Beginning May 6, the new Oriental Limited will leave the Union Station, Chicago, over Burlington rails at 11:30 p. m. instead of 11 p. m. which is the present leaving time, and will arrive Seattle 6 p. m. the third day out. The new Oriental Limited now makes the run between Chicago and the city of Seattle, a distance of 2225 miles, in the same length of time it took the Great Northern's fastest transcontinental train in 1895 to make the run between St. Paul and Seattle, a distance at that time of 1827 miles.

"The running time between Chicago and Seattle in 1895 was 12 hours longer than it is today, and the distance over the route of the New Oriental Limited has been reduced in that time by 33 miles. This shorter mileage has been brought about through 33 years of continuous improvement in construction of steel bridges and tunnels, the straightening of curves, the reduction of grades and other scientific railroad operations designed to facilitate transportation. The fact that the main transcontinental line has been shortened by 33 miles during the intervening 33 years is not so significant, however, as the fact that the New Oriental Limited has carried its passengers over 398 more miles of rails between Chicago and Seattle in 1928 in the same length of time it took its predecessor to make the shorter run from St. Paul to Seattle in 1895.

"The advance in speed of rail passenger transportation is the result of continuous improvement in roadbed and truck equipment, motive power and rolling stock, the use of automatic electric block signals and other modern devices that have today made rail transportation the safest in the world.

"At the same time a tremendous improvement has been made in the comfort of rail transportation as evidenced by the modern equipment now carried on the New Oriental Limited, with its manifold service features affording every facility offered the traveler in the most modern hotel as compared with that furnished by the transcontinental railroad of 1895."

NEW CRISIS NEAR FOR ENGLISH PRAYER BOOK

London, April 18 (AP)—Developments today indicated that the revised prayer book of the Church of England faces stronger opposition than when the House of Commons rejected the first revision last year. The Church Times, the principal Anglo-Catholic organ, demands that the measure providing for Commons approval of the book be dropped. The committee for the maintenance of truth and faith, an organization of evangelicals, appeals for a long postponement. At least the Rt. Rev. Edmund Arbuthnot Knox, former bishop of Manchester and leader of the committee, said the prayer book "has a gaping rent on the Roman side, which must eventually destroy the whole Church of England."

FRENCH LINER IN QUICK TRIP

The SS. "Ile de France," flagship of the French Line, which sailed from Pier 57, New York City at 1 a. m. on Saturday, April 7, after a quick run, arrived at Plymouth, England, and disembarked passengers, at six o'clock Thursday evening, April 12.

This enabled passengers traveling on a special train that usually meets incoming French Line steamships at Plymouth, to reach London at 11:50 p. m. the same day.

It is interesting to note that the Great Western Railway train from Plymouth to London only took 229 minutes to make the 234 miles, averaging better than a mile a minute. The total time consumed from New York to the hotel in London was five days and 18 hours.

INN WILL AID LEGION POST

Again this year on Tuesday, April 24, Arancio Brothers, proprietors of the Mansion Inn at Cochituate, will open their doors to the Charles Alward Post, American Legion, to aid the building fund. Last year Arancio Brothers did the same thing and thereby enabled the post to realize a tidy sum toward their building fund.

Mansion Inn is an ideal place to stage this festival, for it has been thoroughly renovated.

FIVE CRUISES FOR SHAWNEE

Announcement is made by the Clyde Steamship Co. of five midsummer excursion cruises of 12 days each, with the new turbine, twin-screw steamship Shawnee from New York to Halifax, Quebec and the Saguenay River.

Sailing dates from New York will be on Saturdays, July 7 and 21, August 4 and 18 and September 1. Three days will be allowed for shore excursions at Quebec.

The popularity of the Shawnee has been wide-spread, both in the Canadian service last summer and on the New York-Miami-Havana run this past winter season.

The Shawnee has four passenger decks, with first class accommodations for 500 passengers. She is of transatlantic type with double steel bottom equipped with salt water ballast tanks to insure stability at sea. Spacious lounges, tea room, men's club room, sheltered dancing deck, music room, library, writing and dining room, sun parlor, glass-enclosed promenade deck and other most attractive features make her strictly modern in every respect.

She has complete electric light and power, ventilating and refrigerating plants. Her twin reduction-geared turbine engines develop 10,200 horse-power, capable of developing a speed of 22 knots per hour.

There are a number of de luxe suites comprising parlor, bedroom and bath, in addition to regular staterooms. In many of the latter are double or twin beds, with chairs, writing desk, bedside table, chifforobes, dressing tables, and other luxurious appointments and furnishings.

MODES OF BYGONE DAYS TO BE REPRODUCED AT THE CHRISTOPHER SHOP FASHION PAGEANT

Beacon Hill Attics to Give Up Dresses Worn in the 19th Century to Aid Charity, Says Betty Alden

WHENEVER THERE'S A COSTUME PAGEANT IN THE MAKING HOW marvelous is the supply of old-fashioned frocks and fripperies that come forth from cedar chests and attic boxes. Those ancient fashioners of feminine finery builded better than they knew with their lustrous heavy silks, their wehlike muslins and their flaunting fringes! The silks that would "stand alone" are as richly lustrous as the day they were woven, and as for the gossamer confections of muslin and lace, they are as daintily desirable today as though a hundred or so years had not passed over them.

BOSTON FAMILIES HAVE EVER SO MANY OF THESE TREASURES cherished fondly through many decades and several generations. From their camphorwood chests and tissue wrappings they are brought forth when very special occasions are afoot. Such as the Fashion Pageant the Christopher Shop puts on May 2 in the afternoon and evening, as part (and a very elaborate part) of the mammoth "Home Beautiful" exposition in Mechanics Hall. Mrs. Horace Morison, leader of the Christopher Shop brigade of feminine supporters, is ransacking her several domestic establishments for old-fashioned costumes and accessories.

THE MORISON STORE OF COSTUMES IS WELLNIGH PRICELESS, AND almost inexhaustible. The Morison daughters, Miss Nancy, Miss Elizabeth and Miss Babette, were, so the story goes, bequeathed trunksful of beautiful gowns, perfect and complete in every detail to slippers and fans and accessories in keeping with their time's elaborateness. Mrs. George Swinnerton Parker is another proud possessor of lovely authentic costumes made back in the days when "figures" were being worn and wasp-waisted young ladies looked out demurely from bonnets tied beneath pretty chins.

MISS SALLY PARKER, CHERISHED AND PRETTY DAUGHTER OF the George S. Parkers, will be wearing one of these, a lovely muslin affair, when the "Modes" are put on May 2. It is a family heirloom, fashioned by hand from delicate muslin now deepened to ivory by the kindly touch of time. There is a high-waisted bodice, and long skirt to the ankles over a lacy petticoat. A hand-decorated scarf of antique lace and a fluttery sash of shell pink carry out the picture, and all will be infinitely attractive on pretty Miss Parker, with her soft blue eyes and golden locks.

Miss Sally Parker, daughter of the George S. Parkers, will wear old muslin dress, a family heirloom, when the "Modes" are put on May 2.

"WEDDING GOWNS OF BY-GONE YEARS" will strike the note of sentimentality in many a heart—and the ivory-tinted satins and nets that our mothers and grandmothers and great grandmothers were will be paraded on slim and lissom moderns. Simplicity was not the keynote of fashion in those far-away days. Frills and pleats, godets, ruffles and panniers were arranged with an elaborate attention to detail quite amazing to the present-day feminine, whose fetish is the straight line and who would forever banish the curves revealed, ad lib., as per Godey's Ladies' Book.

THE FASHION PAGEANT IS CALLED "A Progress of Modes," and winds up with the frill and bustles of the "gay '90s" and commences with early days of the 19th century, the era typical of a bygone Beacon Hill when the gentry inhabiting that sacred section went about in horsedrawn coach through thoroughfares distinguished by their quiet and repose. Attics of mansions that graced the Hill back in that peaceful time are today giving up their treasures. Mrs. Morison's, for instance. There is an elaborate purple gown, made by Worth for a Boston beauty when a prince of the blood royal journeyed thither from England and society fluttered about him.

BESIDE MESDAMES MORISON and Parker, Mrs. Ralph Doane, Mrs. Theodore Pitman, Jr., Mrs. Wilbur Grand, Mrs. Ernst M. Parsons, Mrs. George E. Clement, Miss Minnie M. Bracket, Mrs. George Mayo, Mrs. David Sigourney are some, though not all, of the Christopher Shop devotees who possess heirloom costumes to be paraded as other-day "modes" by up-to-date moderns. Mrs. Mayo is recruiting a Cambridge coterie to wear the "bustle" gowns and the "chignon" headdress of the 1870-80 period. Mrs. Pitman directs the group depicting what was "the thing" during and after Civil War days.

MRS. HOMER LANE BIGELOW, JR., coming home from a cherry blossom time visit in Washington today, is arranging one of the most attractive episodes of the "parade." It is a waltz number, done in charming costume to the "Blue Danube" lilting rhythm, and Mrs. Bigelow will have a young man as partner in the dance. Perhaps it will be young Mr. Carleton Francis, who has accompanied her before. Mrs. Bigelow dances with grace and charm. Appearing with such a partner as Mr. Francis they furnish a number that might grace the shining dance area of some smart supper club, so professional it is.

MISS MARY GAGNON, A pretty young Boston visitor down from Montreal, is one of the already enrolled "Models." I believe she will be in one of Mrs. Wilbur Grant's groups and will wear a confection owned by Mrs. Grant, an heirloom as aforementioned. Some Y. W. C. A. girls are also under Mrs. Grant's direction, and they do the 1850-1860 decade in authentic costumes of the period. Miss Blanche Haskell sings "The Last Rose of Summer" a la the dear departed Jenny Lind of fragrant memory, in a costume exactly reflecting the voluminous fashion of that diva's time.

ANOTHER CHRISTOPHER Shop effort for the "Home Beautiful" will be the furnishing, arranging and decorating of a suite of rooms. This in itself is a task of some magnitude, but the Christopher Shop people are nothing if not valiant in their undertakings, and plans for early America, French, Italian, Danish and other characteristic rooms are well under way.

DANCER PLUNGES FIVE STORIES TO HIS DEATH

Los Angeles, April 18 (AP)—A plunge from a fifth floor window of a hotel caused the death of Wayne Bradford, an acrobatic dancer. Blood stains in his room and the confusion in which furniture and clothing were strewn about led police to believe that Bradford might have been thrown from the window. Several liquor bottles were found in the room. Police began a search for a man who disappeared after telling the elevator man that the actor had fallen from his window.

TWIN SISTERS BECOME MOTHERS THE SAME DAY

New York, April 18 (INS)—Birthdays run in doubles in the Reigis family in November, 1926. Katherine and Elizabeth and Reigie, twins, eloped with Charles Johnson and George Mulcahy and were married at Greenwich, Ct. in a double ceremony. They set up housekeeping in the same home here, and now each of the twins is the proud mother of a baby boy born on the same day.

ROSA RAISA EXPECTS STORK IN AUGUST

Chicago, April 18 (AP)—Rosa Raisa, prima donna of the Chicago Civic Opera company, who sailed April 13 with her husband, Giacomo Rimini, for their villa near Verona, Italy, is expecting the birth of a child next August, it was learned today. The Rimini baby will be the second born in opera circles of Chicago in many years.

DREYFUS PUT ON COMMITTEE IN SCHOOL PROBE

With the appointment of Carl Dreyfus, one of Boston's business leaders, as the seventh member, the survey committee to study the cost of Boston school curricula is complete. Mr. Dreyfus was appointed by Andrew J. Peters, president of the Boston Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Peters acted on the invitation extended the chamber, together with the mayor and Real Estate Exchange, to nominate one member each.

Associated with him in the work is President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard University, appointed by Mayor Nichols; Francis R. Hangs, appointed by the Boston Real Estate Exchange; Michael J. Sullivan, former chairman of the school committee and finance commissioner; Arthur L. Gould, assistant superintendent of public schools; Walter F. Downey, head master of Boston English high school, and Archer M. Nickerson, master of the Frank V. Thompson intermediate school. The latter four were appointed by the school committee. Judge Sullivan has been named chairman.

Mr. Dreyfus has been identified with civic movements for many years. He has been especially energetic in the interest of the needy and unfortunate as shown by his work in the past on state boards.

He graduated from Boston Latin school and entered Harvard, graduating with the class of '95, the same class as that of former Mayor Peters, who appointed him.

Following the death of A. Shuman, his father-in-law, he was appointed to the board of trustees of the Boston City Hospital. He has been a figure in many of the improvements effected there.

Under ex-Mayor Fitzgerald, Mr. Dreyfus was selected as secretary of the business men's advisory board to the High School of Commerce and High School of Practical Arts. During the administration of Governor Guild, he became a trustee of the Massachusetts training schools, which office brought him to a study of unfortunate boys and girls who were placed in the State reform schools. He was always a champion of the theory that some good can be gleaned from the most difficult cases.

During the war he volunteered his services and became supervisor of the purchasing methods for the quartermaster department. His work accounted for savings running into thousands. Later he unified the system of purchase at the New York depot with an added saving reported.

He had been identified with Mrs. Dreyfus in the driving away of cares from the drawn faces and shriveled limbs of crippled children at Thorn Hedge, the Dreyfus summer home at Marblehead.

Shortly after his appointment was announced, he stated it happened so suddenly he could not state any of his plans for the work, other than he will bend every effort to make the survey as complete a success as possible.

The committee members all are serving without pay and face an exhaustive study of the school system, with a view to determining the exact causes for increase cost of the maintenance of the system. All classes of schools are to be covered.

ROSZIKA HUBBY TO SHARE 150 MILLIONS

Montreal, Que., April 18 (AP)—Mortimer Davis, Jr., husband of Roszika Dolly of the famous Dolly sisters dancing team, and his stepmother, Lady Davis, are to share equally in the net annual revenue of the estate of the late Sir Mortimer Davis, Canadian financier, the will filed here revealed. The estate is estimated at $150,000,000.

At the end of 50 years—the period set by the will before the estate is to be settled—if his son has died and Lady Davis has died without issue of his marriage with her, Sir Mortimer directed that the estate be divided among a hospital, the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies and non-sectarian charitable institutions.

When Sir Mortimer died in France last March, it was rumored he had disinherited his son because of the younger Davis' runaway marriage to the dancer. It was known the two had been estranged by the son's marriage.

PATRIOTS' DAY PLANS IN HUB

The 153d anniversary of the battles of Lexington and Concord will be celebrated on Patriots' Day, tomorrow, with a number of Greater Boston communities participating with special observances.

As usual the biggest celebration will take place in Lexington, with Concord a close second, followed by Boston, Cambridge, Arlington, Medford, Somerville and Brookline, through which places horsemen representing Paul Revere and William Dawes, Jr., will make their famous rides.

In Lexington the observance will start at 6:30 a. m., with Boy and Girl Scouts marching to the Green, where exercises will take place. There will be ringing of bells, flag-raising, sounding of fire whistles, sports, band concerts, ball, and the feature of the day, two parades.

DECORATE GRAVES.

Concord will ring the church bells, decorate the 72 graves of Revolutionary soldiers, stage athletics events on Emerson playground, and furnish a band concert.

Boston will have a parade, starting at 2:30, from Columbus ave. and Dartmouth st., with memorial exercises en route at the burying ground on the Common, at the Old Granary, and King's Chapel. There will be military exercises on the Common, with other observances in some of the churches.

The Paul Revere ride will start from North sq. at 10 o'clock, and that of William Dawes from John Eliot sq., Roxbury, at the same hour.

In Arlington there will be a band concert in the morning on the steps of Robbins Memorial Town Hall, and a parade to the burying ground on Pleasant st. will be followed by exercises, with reception to the riders at 11:35. There will be a Legion dance at night.

HONOR DAWES RIDER

Brookline's observance of the day will center in the reception to the rider representing William Dawes, who will be received at the Edward Devotion Historical House and School, Harvard st.

Cambridge will have a parade in the morning, with exercises at the Revolutionary flag pole, Cambridge and Kirkland sts., and the Dawes rider will be received by the mayor and City Council.

Medford's celebration will be extensive, starting with the ringing of church bells at 8 a. m. The parade will start at 9:30 o'clock, marching to the Revolutionary cemetery on Salem st., where exercises will take place. The parade will be reviewed at the city building. At 9:25 there will be flag raising ceremonies on the public library grounds, and the decoration of Medford Minute Men of 1775 bronze tablet on Pasture Hill.

There will be patriotic exercises and decoration of graves of Revolutionary soldiers by Daughters of the American Revolution and others. The Paul Revere rider will be received at 10:35.

The Hall House will be opened for the reception of the rider and there will be patriotic addresses by the mayor and others. During the afternoon the historic Royall House and the Medford Historical Society Building will be open for inspection. At 7 p. m. church bells of the city and the chimes on Goddard Chapel tower, Tufts College, will be rung, and the program will conclude with the concert and ball of the Medford post of Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Somerville's observance will begin at 9:30 with a parade, followed by exercises at Saxton C. Foss Park, Broadway. The Paul Revere rider will be received at 10:25 by the mayor and other officials and will leave 10 minutes later.

Humberto to Wed May 30

Rome, April 18 (INS)—The marriage of Crown Prince Humberto, of Italy, and Princess Marie Jose, of Belgium, will take place on May 30 it was stated today.

WED 'FOR GOLD AND NOT LOVE'

New York, April 18—That his former wife demanded $10,000,000 as a price for giving him an heir was the startling claim made by Sebastian S. Kresge, chain store owner, in a divorce document he filed here.

The former wife, Doris M. Kresge, told him he would not get a child to be his heir unless he paid her the $10,000,000, Kresge declared.

The child was never born. Kresge says he declined to pay the sum.

The sensational statement of Kresge was revealed through an order in Supreme Court. Up to the present the divorce documents were impounded. Mrs. Kresge was given a divorce in this state last February. Kresge had brought suit for divorce at Detroit.

This material came into the open when Justice Mahoney signed an order at Kresge's behest discontinuing an order for the latter's examination in connection with his divorce suit. The justice held that in view of the fact that Mrs. Kresge won an interlocutory divorce decree in New York, February 18, there was little occasion for Kresge being examined in connection with his Detroit divorce action.

It was plain, Kresge said, that his wife married him not for love, but rather to obtain from him all the money she could.

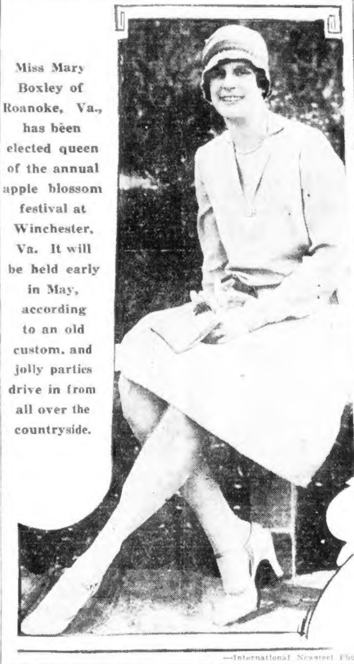

His complaint accused her of associating with two men, each of whom he designated, "Mr. W." At 3:50 o'clock in the afternoon of May 16, 1926, he said, Mrs. Kresge and Mr. W. went to her apartment at 375 Park ave. where he and some friends followed and demanded entrance. The doors were locked and chained, he related.

SALOME DANCES INTO JAIL ON DOPE-KEEPING CHARGE

Salome took a ride today. In this case Salome was not a dancer, but John A. Salome, said by the police to have a long record for possessing and peddling drugs. Arrested in an Ash st., South End, house by Officers Monahan and Madden of the vice squad, Salome was found guilty of possessing 150 grains of morphine and two needles. He asked that he be sent out of the State to take a cure, but Judge Sullivan gave him 18 months in the House of Correction. On his own admission Salome has been a drug addict for years, and, according to the officers, is one of the few "deck" pedlers of drugs left in the city.

SHIP'S CAPTAIN KILLS FLEEING THIEF AT PIER

New York, April 18 (AP)—Captain William J. Enright of the freighter Port Curtis, at a Brooklyn pier shot and killed a thief who awakened him in his stateroom early today. The man had disregarded the captain's command to stop as he pursued him along the deck. Some of the captain's jewelry was found near the fallen man and there was evidence he had tried to open the ship's safe.

POURS GAS IN STOVE; 3 DEAD

Presque Isle, Me., April 18 (INS)—Three children were burned to death and their mother and a half-brother of their parents were seriously injured here today when gasoline was mistaken for kerosene in kindling a fire in the kitchen stove. An explosion shattered the house and set it afire.

The dead: Beth Farley, six; Phyllis Farley, three, and George Farley, one. Those in the hospital: Donald Farley, five; the mother, Mrs. Hazel Farley, and her half-brother, Archie Farley. Donald was not expected to live.

The father of the dead children, Harold Farley, was at work. Archie Farley, the half-brother, was lighting the stove at the Farley home on Chapman rd., six miles from town. The fire did not start readily and Archie attempted to use what he thought was kerosene. The can contained gasoline. The explosion followed.

Neighbors, who ran to the Farley home, found the dead and the injured, conveying the latter to the hospital here.

STRAYER URGES MORE AID FOR WAR VETS

World War veterans should receive the same compensation as Spanish war veterans—from $20 to $50 a month—declared National Commander Frank T. Strayer of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States upon arrival here today.

He is in Boston on a two-day visit to inform the Massachusetts department of the V. of F. W. about the legislative activities of the national organization.

The cases of illness among World War veterans are increasing threefold as a direct result of the war and the peak will be reached in 1932, he said.

Doctors report the new cases due to war reaction, shell-shock and gas in the lungs, he said.

"The red tape as regards compensation should be cut," Mr. Strayer declared. "Most veterans entitled to it can't get it because they have not the necessary records in their possession. As a result, hundreds of them are suffering. The Government should initiate a new method whereby adequate compensation can be given to those entitled to it."

In the afternoon Commander Strayer was received with members of the State Department by Governor Fuller. In the party were Senior Vice-Commander Joseph H. Hanken, Revere; Junior Vice-Commander Max Singer, Police Station 2, Boston; State Quartermaster William A. Dinsmore, East Boston and National Aide-de-Camp Harry Goldberg, Dorchester.

AMERICAN-ETTES Paul Revere's Ride By Masterson

"They'd never seen a white woman before," says Trader Horn. "The only one within a thousand miles was Nina T—— that was goddess in a Josh house. Her father was an Englishman. Her mother was an octoroon from Princess Island. Nina's hair was auburn. Dark auburn. And her skin was pale. No darker than many a beauty in London."

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Alfred Aloysius Horn, wire seller, 73 years old, lives in a Johannesburg lodging house, where he is writing the story of his boyhood adventures. Once a week he brings the manuscript to Mrs. Ethelreda Lewis, the South African novelist. He has told of how he went out from St. Edward's College, Liverpool, at 18, to learn the ivory and rubber trade in West Africa. There he is stationed at a store in Gaboon, where his instructor is an old native, Chief Ritiga. He develops an admiration for the medical powers of Pipi, a native healer.

CHAPTER 3

ONE of the most interesting natives of the Gaboon was old man Pipi, brother of Chief Ritiga. He was a great hunter and also chief medicine man, and had some of the most wonderful cures.

There were many diseases that the natives were subject to. One was a species of heart disease and Pipi [illegible] a sure cure for it. If not attended to in a reasonable time it was fatal. A pain through the body in the region of the heart was a sure indication of this terrible malady.

Pipi would press the painful spot with his finger and watch closely after the finger was released; once he felt sure of the location he drew from a small scabbard made of skin an instrument like a flat bamboo needle; this he inserted two or three inches deep between the ribs he had selected, always piercing from the side, right or left as the case might be. The operation was so skilfully conducted that the patient showed little or no signs of pain, was cured instantaneously [illegible] cured.

The old man also told me of the wonderful medicine man I should meet later on when I went trading on the Ogowe river. The [illegible], he said, were wonderful doctors. This I found to be true. Natives who [illegible] went there to be cured. I knew one Gaboon [illegible] who was afflicted with this disease. I met him two or three years later in the [illegible], which is situated on the south bank of the Ogowe, about 80 miles up and is said to be a famous place

STRANGLER IN GO WITH M'LEOD

Lewis 10 to 6 Favorite to Win in Title Mat Bout Tonight

By JACK CONWAY

STRANGLER LEWIS and George McLeod are eagerly waiting for the sound of the gong which will send them into action in their world's heavyweight championship wrestling bout at the Arena tonight.

The rival grapplers each declare they are in the best possible condition and that they will not have an alibi to offer if defeated.

Jack Conway

Lewis is a 10 to 6 favorite in the betting to retain his title. The speculative element realizes that McLeod has youth and speed on his side, but they are of the opinion that the Strangler's headlock, backed by Old Man Experience, will carry the champion to victory.

It is expected that Lewis and McLeod will furnish one of the most bitterly contested mat scuffles in the history of the wrestling game.

Lewis, a veteran of 15 years of wrestling wars, is at the peak of his ability. Despite the advance of Father Time, the Strangler has been winning steadily.

Last February, Lewis cleaned up the heavyweight muddle when he vanquished Joe Stecher at St. Louis. Since then he has been touring the country toppling over all comers. It is a novelty in these days of safety first champions to see a fellow like Lewis who will put his title on the line and defy the world to take it away from him.

THE Strangler will be taking quite a risk when he whirls into action against McLeod. The latter has youth, speed, strength and science on his side. He has made the so-called clever wrestlers appear ordinary, while he has made big, rough house birds like Bull Komar look silly.

McLeod has had the necessary schooling in the mat game to fit himself for tonight's skirmish. With a fortune dangling before him, he is all set to make the big drive for fame and riches.

Lewis realizes McLeod is the best wrestler he has been called upon to meet since upsetting Stecher, but feels he carries enough guns to surge out front.

GUS SONNENBERG, former Dartmouth football hero, will parade into action with George Walker, Canadian heavyweight champion, as an opponent in another finish match. Sonnenberg has been the sensation of the wrestling season. Using the same aggressive tactics that won him a place on the late Walter Camp's All-American football team, Sonnenberg has been crushing the opposition.

Walker is by far the best opponent Sonnenberg has been called upon to meet. Last week, Walker went 30 minutes to a draw with Joe Malcewicz.

Bull Komar will tackle Charley Hansen, Joe Malcewicz will take on Abe Kaplan, Johnny Spellman will battle Harry Gassmann, while Joe Dominguez will oppose Jack O'Dell.

It is expected that the largest crowd of the season will be on hand to witness this attractive show.

SOX AND YANKS BATTLE AT FENWAY

By NICK FLATLEY

Bill Carrigan hopes that the ice-chest weather will go away from here, so that he can lead his Red Sox out against the Yankees at the Fenway this p. m. Bill thinks it's about time his athletes won another ball game and would just as soon pluck one from the Yanks as anybody else.

The champions have been winning ball games, but they haven't steadied down yet. In the opening game of the series, they were always in trouble, even though they were coasting along with a big lead. A Sox base hit in any of the last four innings would have spilled that ball game.

The Carrigans are hustling and trying, and though they haven't been winning, they do furnish plenty of kick. Manager William isn't at all discouraged. He just wants to keep the spirit alive until two or three of his pitchers get in real shape.

"We might have won 'em all," Bill soliloquized, "if we had any kind of steady pitching. The boys have been hitting pretty well and fielding like a real ball club. They have surprised me that way.

real ball club. They have surprised me that way.

"I can't blame the pitchers. The kind of weather we've had since the opener has been tough enough to wreck an Eskimo. As soon as we have a warm week the gang will have a chance to get in some real work mornings, and then things should begin to pick up. The Red Sox are a better club than they were a year ago, I'm sure, and when conditions are right they'll begin to prove it."

Bill called off the Tuesday game after getting the feel of the Greenland breezes and he's all set to do the same thing this afternoon. Good baseball cannot be played in football weather, and double headers later with the Yanks will mean big crowds.

Then, too, the athletes who have been scampering around the sunny south are likely to grab several sorts of flu and pneumonia in our dear old east wind at this time of the year. This spring has convinced even some of the magnates that the season opens too early.

Babe and Lou, the thumping twins, are all set to start their real race. The pair are getting the feel of the ball, and beginning to get their lusty swings synchronized, whatever that means. The evidence at hand would lead one to believe that the baseball this year is the liveliest onion yet produced. Home runs have been flying off some heretofore gentle bats.

This being the case, it will only be a matter of a short time before the Babe and Lou haul out in front of the parade. Lou has dropped a couple beyond the borders, but George H. has been smacking line drives rather than the lofty flies that are his specialty when he's right. But he's a notoriously slow starter.

Levinsky Beaten

St. Louis, April 18 (AP)—Jack McAuliffe of Detroit won the newspaper decision over Battling Levinsky, former light-heavyweight champion of Philadelphia in 10 rounds here tonight.

BAKER'S PILOT PAID $15,000 FOR CONTRACT

When Sergt. Sammy Baker, knockout king of the welterweight division, makes his appearance in the ring at Mechanics Building Friday night against Clyde Hull of Fort Worth, Texas, it will be the army eagle's first fight under the direction of his new manager, Abe Katz, who only recently paid $15,000 for his contract, which was held by Sergt. Steve Webber of Mitchel Field.

Seldom in the history of boxing is a fighter's services put on the auction block and knocked down at such a price and only the fact that Baker faces a brilliant opportunity to win the championship, no doubt Katz would have not agreed to pay any such price.

Not in many years have two harder punchers climbed into the ring than Baker and Hull and it is needless to say that each is claiming the victory by the knockout route. Baker is the more consistent hitter but Hull has developed the happy habit of punching hardest when the stake is high.

The meeting between Tassi and Flynn has aroused as much interest as the feature event. Flynn, former Lawrence schoolboy and winner of the 160-pound amateur championship, has won 12 straight bouts since casting his fortunes in the ring with Billy Duffy.

Hub fistic fans will probably hob nob with the winner of tomorrow's B. A. A. Marathon if the plans of Promoter Mack endure. He conferred yesterday with Tom Kanaly, manager of the race, to invite the winner to a place at the ringside. Of course Kanaly could not make any promise, but it is expected that the victor of the long grind will be on hand.

With two sterling six rounders and four four-round events on the card, the show looms up as one of the finest of the years.

Al Beauregard of New Haven and Jake Zeramby of Lynn should provide keen competition while Andy Callahan of Lawrence and Eddie Holmes of Providence meet in the second six. Joe Pahn, Filipino lightweight, champion of the Atlantic fleet makes his bow in a four rounder against Billy O'Leary.

Al Walker, New Haven, and Roy Ace Clark, Alabama, are two heavyweights who meet in a return bout, while Joe Minerva South End, takes on Frankie Moore, North End. Frank Hennessey, Fall River, meets Joey Connolly of Dorchester in another four.

"JIMMY GALLAGHER still hanging on," came the voice over the wire as Mr. Boston picked up the receiver from his telephone today. "I wanted to tip you not to go too strong about Tunney licking Heeney," went on Jimmy. "I know Gene picked his opponent for the championship bout, but I have known of a great many cases where champions got crossed up when they thought they were picking an easy mark.

"Didn't Dempsey name Tunney for the Philadelphia fight. He thought Gene was a tip over. After 10 rounds of battling out there in the rain, he changed his opinion. Like most fight fans, I've a weakness for heavyweight scraps. Since I've been hopping around, I've only missed two heavyweight championship mills. I was absent when Dempsey punched Willard out of the picture at Toledo, while I also missed the Dempsey-Tunney jam at Chicago."

"I'll remember your tip, Jimmy," answered Mr. Boston. "I'll register you as the first of the carefree souls to pick Heeney to win."

Mr. Boston turned to the gang in the Sports Department.

"What did Jimmy Gallagher ever do in sports?" he demanded.

"Oh," replied Freddy Lane, "didn't he play that song about taking me out to the ball game or something."

"You're all wrong," piped Mr. Boston. "I can remember when Jimmy played a forward position on the Roxbury high basketball team. He was an all-interscholastic star. He also played football and baseball. The trouble with Jimmy is that he has become such a good orchestra leader and radio announcer that the gang has forgotten he was once a star athlete. There are some people, especially those in Point of Pines, who don't even know Jimmy learned how to climb while scrambling over the pudding stone out in Roxbury where he was born.

"Are you still handing on, Jimmy?"

"ANOTHER 'phone call for Mr. Boston," shouted an office boy.

"This is Sergeant Eddie Mack on the Argonne front," piped the speaker on the other end of the wire. "Just remind the gang that Sergeant Sammy Baker is due to meet Clyde Hull in a ten-round bout at an Argonne A. A. show at Mechanics building on Friday night.

"Slip it to the boys that Baker is the bird who is down to get the next shot at Joe Dundee's world's welterweight title. Ace Hudkins was set for this match, but began flirting with Mickey Walker and now this pair is matched to meet in Chicago on July 19.

"Baker knocked Hudkins out and so is the logical man to get the Dundee shot. Wouldn't it be funny, I ask you, if Hull busted Baker on the lug Friday night and knocked him back to Mitchel Field?

"Don't make any mistake about Hull being able to hit. He had Pete Latzo bouncing off the floor in Texas, while he has ruined a flock of other star performers with his right hand smacks. Yes, you can say that Baker and Hull looks like a swell jam. Hope the cash customers won't miss it. Not so fussy about the Annie Oakley boys."

MR. BOSTON passed out into the open air. Up on Washington st. he bumped into Johnny Indrisano, East Boston welterweight who had his jaw broken by Hull.

"Just came from the gym," said Johnny. "Boxed a half dozen rounds just so as to keep my hand in the racket. Won't do any fighting until next February as I want to give my injured jaw an opportunity to mend. Have one of my Cuban cigars."

Bobby Goldman came along and also checked in for a few smokes.

"The Mello-Algers bout at Portland is off," said Bobby. "Al is still troubled with a stye on one of his eyes. Laddie Lee will get the shot at Algers on next Tuesday night."

Tom Goodwin, matchmaker of the Suffolk A. A., came along.

"Won't have to listen to any dizzy fight talk for a few days," said Goodwin cheerfully. "The doctors have ordered me to the Philips House for a couple of weeks. They want to look me over. I wouldn't be surprised if they find I have cauliflower ears from listening to the ravings of some of these fight managers."

Goodwin passed on as if going to a show.

One cannot worry about his own troubles in this game they call the boxing racket.

'Twixt Tee and Cup

By BILL GRIMES

Accompanied by divots and profanity, little white golf balls will go skylarking around all courses tomorrow, for the first club tournaments of the season are scheduled for the holiday. Generally speaking, the order of the day is handicap medal play in the morning and four-ball or mixed foursomes for the p. m.

Although some of the clubs have already staged tournaments for their members, Patriots' Day is the official opening of the golf season. The courses are all playing regular greens and most of them are in mid-season condition.

One of the best matches of the W. G. A. season will be staged at The Country Club on Friday when Mrs. E. H. Baker, Jr., the State champion, who plays with Southern, meets Miss Helen Payson, the holder of the women's Canadian title. As Miss Payson has been playing in the South practically all winter she will have an advantage over Mrs. Baker, but she will discover e'er the match has gone many holes, that she is playing one of the most determined in the game.

Mrs. Henri Prunaret, Jr., and Mrs. H. H. Ellis, both of the Charles River Country Club, gave fine accounts of themselves in their initial matches with the Midland District. Mrs. Prunaret and Mrs. Ellis are playing high class golf and are fixtures on the Midland first team. Mrs. Ellis played with the Southern second team last season winning five of her ten matches, while Mrs. Prunaret went undefeated in three matches.

Willie Duffy, the Albemarle professional, picked up an efficient assistant in Tony Farrington, who was formerly connected with C. Harry Bowler of the Winchester Country Club. Tony has had a fine schooling and knows the game from every angle.

The Harvard golf squad is working out every day at the Belmont Spring Country club. Capt. Jim Hutchinson is working hard to unearth replacements for Eddie Stimpson, Ed Cole and Dwight Barnum, a rather difficult assignment. At present it appears as though Capt. Hutchinson and Joe Morrill will carry the load for the Crimson.

When the improvements now under construction at the 4th green at Oakley are completed, this will be one of the best holes on the course. They are banking up the green and putting in a flock of new traps and bunkers, which call for a real second shot to get home.

RAY IS A MYSTERY

OUTSTANDING RUNNERS IN B. A. A. MARATHON RACE TOMORROW

AMERICA'S MOST COLORFUL TRACK ATHLETE, JOIE RAY, will compete in the B. A. A. Marathon tomorrow. This great athlete from Chicago, who was the peer of the American milers for so many years, believes he carries enough stuff to capture this B. A. A. grind which is the Olympic Marathon try out. Ray figures that he will meet stiff opposition in the race. Whitey Michelson of Portchester, N. Y., is the man aside from Clarence DeMar, whom Joie fears, and the blonde New Yorker will be carefully watched in tomorrow's race.

THE WORLD'S MARATHON KING. Clarence DeMar is primed for this big Marathon test, the most important of his long and colorful career. That De Mar is on edge for the race is evident by his recent workouts. Last March he won the Shepard Stores Boston-Providence race. While Joie Ray will have his host of admirers along the race course tomorrow the Melrose Legionnaire will be the prime favorite of the crowd.

The woman who cut corners with health

FOR a long time she had gotten by ... cutting corners with health ... now she's ... the ... her completely ... enthusiasm ... were almost ... And every mirror mocked her to her face.

What a tragedy that so many people fail to realize the trouble constipation can cause—but let it go on neglected, doing its deadly work. Constipation saps vital strength. Thieves youth. Mars beauty. Throbbing heads and aching backs, dragging feet and lusterless eyes, are its fruits — and it frequently leads to serious disease in the end.

And the pity is that, all the while, it is so easy to relieve. So simple to prevent. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to bring prompt relief. Pleasant, safe prevention!

ALL-BRAN is effective and natural

Bulk or roughage relieves constipation in a natural way. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN furnishes bulk in generous quantity because it is 100% bran. This bulk carries moisture throughout the digestive system—gently exercising the intestines, sweeping out poisonous wastes. Part-bran products seldom contain sufficient bulk to be completely effective. Doctors recommend ALL-BRAN. Because it is 100% bran and accomplishes 100% results.

So much better than harsh drugs

ALL-BRAN brings lasting relief. Far better than habit-forming pills and laxatives whose dose must be constantly increased and which are only temporarily effective. An appetizing cereal food. ALL-BRAN is delicious with milk or cream—with fruits or honey added. Soaking a few moments in the milk brings out all its nut-like flavor. Mix it with other cereals too. Sprinkle into soups. Use it in many kinds of cookery. Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal.

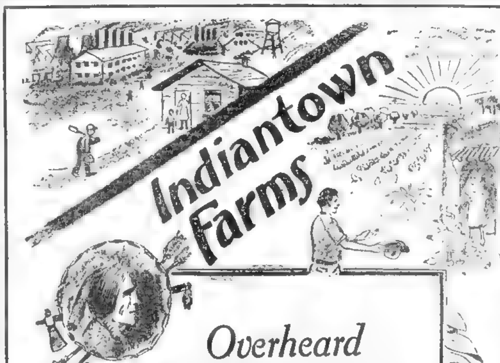

But be sure you have genuine Kellogg's—the original ALL-BRAN. Don't take chances with part-bran substitutes, which, at best, can be but partially effective. ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers. Served at hotels, restaurants. On diners. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Guaranteed!

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is sold with this definite guarantee: Eat it according to directions. If it does not relieve constipation safely, we will refund the purchase price.

Overheard

ON a murky day last Autumn in the smoking compartment of one of the Pullman cars as the Orange Blossom Special, the Seaboard Air Line Railroad's crack Florida train, was approaching New York.

The speaker looked out the car window at the rows of factories and the men hurrying in and out—made the statement that he would rather starve under a palm tree in Florida than look forward to a life working in the mills and factories.

In Florida, nature has provided too well for anyone to starve. Florida is the main source of all the fresh vegetables and fruits which you see all around you through the long Winter months.

Indiantown Farms, one of the most fertile locations in Florida, has soil and climate which will grow the choicest.

This means big dividends to the man close to the soil.

The choice is up to you. Will it be work in a factory, most of your life on wages, or be your own boss on a ten-acre or larger farm at Indiantown with a future of Wealth, Health and Happiness.

Hard times are unknown to the farmer on Indiantown Farms.

Our expert agricultural advice and plan of payments insures for you a good future.

EDITOR'S MAIL

Dear Mr. Frisby—

I am a hot Mamma, from the East. I have been spending the winter in Los Angeles. I live at the Better Built Hotel. Often I have been sending back to my dear husband for money. The last time I wrote I thought I would flower it up a bit, something like this—

California is wonderful, 'tis summer here,
Send me a thousand or so, my dear.

This is what the brute wrote back—

Spring is here, and thawing fast,
You better come home, because this is the last.

Hot Pappa.

Embarrassing Moments

Sir—

I am a celebrated symphony orchestra conductor, under contract to one of the biggest movie edifices in the country. Often I hear people in the front row speak admiringly of my beautiful head of hair. The other night we played the storm scene from "William Tell." Imagine my embarrassment when I suddenly felt a draft and saw my wig swinging madly through the air on the end of my baton.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid liver.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative mixed with olive oil.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown" mouth—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them. 15c, 30c, 60c.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By HELEN ROWLAND

MY SON, when a bachelor hath reached the Age of Discretion, then, alas, he is more to be pitied than envied.

For behold this is the hour of his discontent, when he perceiveth the headache in every wineglass, and the danger in every come-hither glance;

When he can scent pneumonia in every April breeze and insomnia in every draught of black coffee.

When he can see a storm in every flaming sunset, and a breach-of-promise suit in every careless kiss.

When he perceiveth a jail sentence in every jump of the speedometer—and alimony in every serious love affair.

When he descrieth the indigestion in every broiled mushroom—and ptomaine in every midnight lobster.

When he can see bankruptcy in every prodigal impulse—and premature old age in every all night party.

When he envisioneth hay fever in every flower, and rheumatism in every moonlight stroll.

When he can see retribution in every stolen kiss, and remorse in every reckless adventure.

When he can see the toothache in every sweetmeat and the heartache in every young romance.

Then, ah then, hath a bachelor reached the Age of Discretion, when all women are as one woman unto him—and that one a MENACE!

When he walketh "lonely as a cloud"—and is glad of it!

When golf is his only enthusiasm—other men's wives are his only diversion, and his "symptoms" and his health chart his only excitement.

When he discardeth the rose colored spectacles of youth, and looketh at all the world through a fog of suspicion!

Then ask me not WHY men should marry while they are yet young upon the bough, and the sap runneth strong in their veins.

For, verily, verily, it is plain to the eye that a bachelor who hath outlived his enthusiasms is but a collection of complexes completely surrounded by pessimism.

But a Married Man NEVER reacheth the Age of Discretion! And the only thing harder than to lure a bachelor INTO folly, is to keep a married man OUT of it!

Stomach Disorders First Revealed by Coated Tongue

Your tongue is nothing more than the upper end of your stomach and intestines. It is the first thing your doctor looks at. It tells at a glance the condition of your digestive system—and physicians say that 90% of all sickness starts with stomach and bowel trouble.

A coated tongue is a danger signal of those digestive disorders which lead to so many kinds of serious illness. It tells why the least exertion tires you out; why you have pains in the bowels, gas, sour stomach, dizzy spells.

Coating on the tongue is a sign that you need Tanlac—the medicine which has helped thousands who were physical wrecks from stomach and bowel troubles—who had "tried everything" in vain and about given up hope.

Tanlac contains no mineral drugs; it is made of barks, herbs and roots. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Your money back if it doesn't help you.

BROKERS USE NEW CURB ON MARKET

By FRANK H. MELOON, Financial Editor.

Bankers have been reported as throwing up their hands in despair over failure to find an effective means of curbing speculative excesses in Wall Street. I am informed today, however, that leading member houses of the New York Stock Exchange have just adopted the curb several times suggested in this column. That is requiring larger margin payments. Some stiff advances in requirements have been put into effect. These apply to new customers. It is the only practical brake to be found, as it can be made to apply strictly to issues in which it is desired to curb speculation.

Margin traders are likely to bear the brunt of whatever losses may be incurred. The large margins required from them are liable to give them a false idea of safety. It stands to reason a lot of pools will be sold out of their stocks after a long string of 4,000 share or larger days.

* * *

Boston Stock Exchange will be closed for the holiday Thursday. As Boston is a big factor in New York trading, many offices will be open in the State st. district, despite the local closing. Wall Street trading will go on as usual. Several years ago Boston traders sustained considerable losses as a result of their failure to watch the "Big Board" operations on Patriots' Day.

* * *

Important meeting was called to attention of readers of this column yesterday. It was the gathering of business men from six states for the initial New England research conference. President Charles F. Kettering of General Motors Research Corp., the principal speaker, is a gentleman of great ability. He will be heard in Boston with unusual interest. General Motors, it will be recalled, blazed a new trail with its study of instalment sales several weeks ago.

C. F. Kettering

Trader Horn was not a Wall Street trader. If he had been, his style as a writer would promise a great deal for readers. Wall Street traders, however, usually tell only the bright side of their career. You hear a lot about profits, but people as a rule are mum on losses.

President Calvin Austin of Eastern Steamship issues the long awaited annual report. Earnings of $7.37 a share on the common stock for the 1927 calendar year show about what I had found generally expected. Add to this figure the approximately $3 a share saved by the freeing of the Cape Cod Canal and you have one man's ideas of what 1928 earnings might approximate. I think his estimate too conservative.

Stock market days of 5,000,000 to 6,000,000 shares are the forecast by Prince & Whitely. Last year, when we foresaw the likelihood of 4,000,000 share days there were not many to agree with us. Those who did not agree failed to note the unmistakable trend of growth first evidenced by rising prices for stock exchange seats. The New York Curb has lately been doing as large a volume of business daily as the New York Stock Exchange itself did not so long ago.

In high Washington circles, it is frankly stated that the authorities are in something of a quandary about the speculative markets in New York. Brokers with important affiliations at the capital were informed that the "authorities" have done nothing to offset the effects of gold exports, but, as pointed out last week, "they have compelled the member banks to borrow more heavily and the member banks, in turn, have taken money out of the market." These maneuvers were intended to, and have, increased the cost of credit, even though new Illinois taxes have driven some money to New York. That normally should have depressed speculation. "That it has done so," the Washington advices state, "is believed due to extraneous influences which cannot be permanent in character." It is broadly hinted that if New York does not respond to the corrective policies already applied, additional curbs will be forthcoming, including a rise in the rediscount rate.

Investment in Canadian Pacific corresponds to going "long" on the Dominion of Canada, it is pointed out, in view of the railroad's extensive interests throughout that country. Holders of the stock believe that with patience they will finally be rewarded with a greater share of the company's prosperity. This year's earnings promise further improvement, as indicated by the showing for the first two months. Gross income in this period increased about 9 per cent above the corresponding period of last year, while the net income was $4,481,094, or about 29 per cent higher than the net for January and February of 1927.

The largest block addition ever made to the New York Stock Exchange list has just been recorded. Its total is about half the amount of the last recorded bank loans to New York Stock Exchange members. By this act the New York Stock Exchange lists £388,000,000 (about $1,900,000,000) of United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland 4 per cent funding loan of 1960-1990 bonds. This is first sterling issue ever listed here of British government. Bonds will be quoted in same manner as United States Liberty bonds; are tax free to non-residents of British Isles, and are legal for insurance companies in this country.

Readers Offer Suggestions to Relieve Unemployment

By B. C. FORBES

New York, April 17—Those of us who have steady jobs may be inclined to bother little about unemployment. But those who are unable to find work naturally are very greatly worried.

Few curses are more grievous to bear than enforced idleness, especially when accompanied by lack of money.

B. C. Forbes.

Suggestions aimed at relieving unemployment are flowing in, particularly from those who are out of work.

Many different steps probably would be necessary to solve the problem in anything like a permanent way.

Shorter working hours might conceivably help. "Pay higher wages" sounds fine, but there are many angles—including international angles—to that proposal. One suggestion made by a writer to this column the other day was that employers give preference to men and single women and not employ married women who really do not badly need the money.

Secretary of Labor Davis is urging employers and their staffs of inventors and scientists and research men to evolve new industries having an appeal to the public and the public's pocketbook, thus absorbing a large number of workers, just as the motor industry has done.

America's best minds assuredly should concentrate on this whole problem of surplus labor. How to raise the purchasing power of the people to a point permitting of the buying and consuming of all that can be produced comes very near the crux of the problem.

A Pittsburgh business man, E. P. Rensi, writes in part:

"Every business that can possibly do so should establish a six-hour day in their plants and cut wages 25 per cent, to compensate for the 25 per cent reduction in working time. That would permit an additional 25 per cent of employment which could be operated during the six-hour day. Where it is not convenient to add more men during the six-hour day, the additional men could be taken on just the same, and then split up into two shifts of six hours each.

"Of course, there would be a howl at the beginning from a lot of the present employed, but there should hardly be any real reason for objection. Even among the steadily employed, it is doubtful if any great percentage work steadily every day throughout the year, either through illness, lack of work occasionally, or through desiring a rest now and then from the continuous forty-four hours' work per week. When we get down to the fine points, the average yearly income is probably no greater in most cases than it would be under a six-hour day with a proportionate decrease in wages, and prospects of working steady.

"This arrangement would not necessarily have to be permanent."

From Jersey City come these suggestions:

"1. That all legal holidays be strictly observed in letter and spirit, so that men and women may have more time to spend with their families.

"2. That business hours (9 in the morning until 5 in the evening) be made a general rule and not a special privilege.

"3. That all employers take an inventory of all employes and their labors, and grant as many increases in salary as possible, every six months."

H. J. Tanner, San Francisco, says:

"There is always, fundamentally, a solution to the problem of unemployment, as long as there exists the natural resources, the labor power and the management for the plentiful production and the distribution of goods and services. There is no possible solution only where existing resources are insufficient.

"But the rational solution would necessitate the worker getting the full value of what he produces, and that would hurt some interests that profit by the present system. In this bountiful country there is no need and no excuse for poverty and want."

H. G. Krake, of Coloma, Mich., who signs himself "A Dirt Farmer," contributes this:

"At a time when newspapers and magazines are stressing stories of phenomenal prosperity in this country, it calls for real nerve for a writer to touch upon the other side of the subject—and there is another side, unmistakably. I venture the guess that 75 per cent realize that the prosperity talked of is not general; that not more than a very limited proportion of our people are actually in prosperous circumstances—unless, maybe, there is included among the prosperous (?) those of us who are straining our 'personal credit' to the breaking point.

"Raising unrealizable hopes leads to over-buying, waste and extravagance. Giving all the facts is, in the long run, certain to prove the better course."

What suggestion or suggestions have some of our large employers to offer?

ed the money in a villa, wise lady, and says she is through with gambling.

Thousands of poor geese will try to imitate her, and the cold-faced croupiers that serve the bank will take in many times 375,000 francs.

Human beings despise the poor fish that swallows the hook with a tempting worm on it, and swallow the same kind of a hook.

Senators denounce the high price of books.

Mr. McKellar, from Tennessee, says, "Novels worth 'two bits' cannot be bought for less than $2."

The price of novels is not so important. But the high cost of books containing positive knowledge, that would enable uneducated millions (including many college graduates) to educate themselves, is disastrous.

That a book should be sold for four or five times what it costs to produce it is as bad for the publisher and for the author as for the reading public.

When will American business, big generally, learn that sales with small profits, as shown in the automobile industry, are most profitable?

Patriots' Day Warning

How Much Too Much Do YOU Weigh?

John Hancock, Sam Adams, Dr. Warren, William Dawes, Paul Revere, Captain Isaac Davis and other patriots will be called to mind tomorrow, as we observe the anniversary of the Battle of Lexington, but who will remember "Fat" Smith?

There were no dieticians in those days. The first calory had yet to be counted.

Lieut.-Col. Francis Smith, alias "Fat," was the most corpulent of His Majesty's officers in Boston.

The VERY polite called him a "gastronomist," an epicure, a person devoted to luxury. He was not merely "comfortably cushioned," as we say, he was grossly fat. He was probably taking on about 4500 calories a day when he jolly well could have done with 1800. He was a sleepyhead, a take-it-easy, a regular old slow coach. He had an oversize stomach. He was notoriously slow, ALWAYS late, slow to come to a decision, slow to put the decision into action.

He needed polo, or golf, or tennis. A diet of buttermilk or orange juice would have done his tummy a world of good and—who knows?—MIGHT have changed history.

THIS was the man General Gage entrusted with the duty of leading a column out into Middlesex, for the double purpose of (1) seizing Hancock and Adams at Lexington and (2) moving on to Concord to destroy the bullets and powder that had been accumulating there for months.

Dr. Warren, who knew in advance what the British were up to, sent Dawes around by way of Roxbury to warn Hancock and Adams and arranged for Revere to cross the Charles and ride to Lexington as a second messenger, in the event that Dawes should be held up.

At the foot of Boston Common, as Revere started, the British were embarking for their trip across the river to a point near the Lechmere farm.

But they were very slow about it. SMITH was in command, a man so fat that he "had difficulty in getting about rapidly."

Modern historians appear to be agreed that if more vigor had been shown by the SMITH expedition the cause of the Colonists would have received a setback. Smith's lethargy gave the Minute Men of Acton, Chelmsford, Sudbury, Bedford and Lincoln time to get to Concord Bridge.

There is no question of his bravery, no doubt of his courage. He not only designated two or three companies to go to the assistance of Captain Walter S. Laurie at the bridgehead but he commanded the rescue force in person!

The LESSON of Francis Smith's fatness has been taken to heart by fighting-men everywhere. In January each year the officers of our own Army are made to appear before a board of doctors. Any man found to be as much as 10 pounds overweight must fast and reduce, until his weight corresponds with his height.

A brave man but fat, leading an important campaign against prudent and alert patriots, hardened, raw-boned men of muscle and stamina, who were as nimble as so many squirrels.

What chance did he have?

E. M. Statler

Boston's Benefactor

Ellsworth Milton Statler was the man chiefly responsible for the investment of $19,000,000 in the Park Square hotel which bears his name.

He began planning this investment as early as 1921, after he had built or had taken over Statler hotels in Buffalo, Cleveland, Detroit, St. Louis and New York.

Men told him there was no demand here for an 1800-room hotel, that Boston and New England appeared to be "done."

Statler KNEW better. He was sharp, keen, discerning. HE knew the Statler idea would be as popular here as it had been elsewhere. It has been and it is. From the very beginning, business came to the new house in great volume. It has continued to come, day after day, ever since.

The erection of the Boston Statler was the kind of tonic the community needed. It stimulated men of affairs, reassured the doubter, helped forward in many ways the work of institutions like the New England Council.

In six great cities there will be public mourning for this "king" of Bonifaces. As these lines are written men are paying tribute to his memory on hundreds of railroad trains, on ships at sea, in foreign capitals. Travelers had hoped he might live long enough to cover the country with his inns.

Mr. Statler's opinion of Boston was that this town is and will continue to be one of the busiest centers in all America and he had nothing to "sell" us when he said so.

He backed his opinion of us with his money.

He will be remembered as one of Boston's benefactors.

The Egg Season Opens

Dress Up, Stand Straight, Look Your Best

The picture on the opposite side of the page by Thomas E. Powers reminds young ladies with divorce certificates of the old saying, "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again."

Some "eggs" (that seems to be the modern slang for young gentlemen) might be better. Some might be worse.

But such as they are, Cupid reminds the young lady that she must take them or leave them. Pagan gods no longer come to wed the daughters of men, and those daughters must be satisfied with some other daughter's brother.

As a matter of fact, one "egg" is very much like another. True philosophy in life consists in picking your "egg" with

PREACHERS TELL OF BEING SWINDLED

By DR. FRANK CRANE

A CHICAGO Theological Seminary has just completed a survey or questionnaire investigating the amount to which preachers are swindled.

Its results show that the clergyman who escapes being swindled in the course of his ministry is an exception.

Every sucker list contains the names of many ministers, which makes them an easy prey for a sales talk.

The city pastor seems to be more worldly wise than his country cousin.

Ministers were asked five questions:

1—Have you ever been swindled by professional crooks?

2—If so, how in your present opinion, could the swindle have been prevented?

3—Do you believe in punishing such crooks?

4—How may they be detected?

5—Have you any counsel to pass on to other ministers?

Almost all of the preachers said they had been swindled at various times in amounts ranging from a $5 bill given to a stranger with a plausible, heart-rending tale, afterwards found to be false, to thousands of dollars, lifetime savings, usually in oil and mining stocks.

Dr. Ozora S Davis, President of the Chicago Theological Seminary, drew up these maxims:

Build a reputation for investigating.

Don't rely too much on your own judgment. Send the applicant for aid to the proper charitable organization. Consult a lawyer on important business dealings.

Don't give your card to strangers or letters of recommendation to men, organizations or plans with which you are not fully conversant. You may be an innocent aid to a swindler.

And last, study people.

One point that Dr. Davis makes should be stressed.

Use charitable organizations. A great deal has been said about their coldness and heartlessness, but much of it is due to the fact that they investigate every case they help and are much better prepared to investigate it than you are.

Don't let your sympathies run away with your judgment.

Most of the ministers seem to be more concerned with the spiritual than the material reaction of the swindler. They fear that the constant swindling of ministers might make them "hard boiled" or distrustful of their fellow men.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

I'VE started something. Jim says I'd better finish it.

Dear Miss Robinson:

Everyone I know reads your things and I do, too, and I like you. But I wonder if you know how many family rows you start?

If my wife thinks your article helps her cause I hear it perpetually until I get one over myself, so what I want you to do is to write an article, the sooner the better, that will deal exclusively with what you think are the rights and liberties of a married couple.

What do you think a man is entitled to? Has his wife the right to go everywhere he goes, at all times, regardless of whether it's a man's association, or some men's business meeting? Do you think a man has a right to one night a week out, to his club or organization? Do you think a man has the liberty to entertain one of his closest male friends at his own home one evening, about once a year, and should his wife kick at preparing this meal?

And while you are at it, don't forget to give the liberties you feel a woman is entitled to also, and give them good and strong. I want to know it if I am failing in my obligations to friend wife.

JIM S.

How many "rights" has a married man?

As many as he can grab off, brother. Married life doesn't differ a particle from the rest of the human experience in that respect. Human nature is human nature, whether it wears a wedding ring or not. And we must always establish our own rating regardless of contracts.

IF YOU CAN EARN YOUR LIBERTY YOU'LL HAVE IT. IF YOU CAN COMMAND RESPECT YOU'LL GET IT. AND IF YOU CAN'T, YOU WON'T.

That doesn't imply that you must earn liberty or command respect with a pick handle. Those tactics won't get you very far in any line of action. The only way permanently to command respect or win consideration is through your own power and poise, your own tact and intelligence AND A SNAPPY COME-BACK! If these qualities won't win the decision for you nothing can—or should, FOR YOU'VE NO RIGHT TO ANY REWARDS YOU HAVEN'T EARNED, Jim S. And if you can't win your wife's affectionate co-operation then she's the better man than you and you might as well face the fact.

Also, you might face another fact—

NOTHING WILL MAKE YOUR WIFE MADDER THAN TO FIND

THAT SHE IS A BETTER MAN THAN YOU ARE.

NO WIFE EVER YET THANKED HER HUSBAND FOR LETTING HER BEAT HIM IN AN ARGUMENT.

Every woman needs strength in her husband and the father of her children. Both her pride and her weakness make such a mate necessary, and she's always trying to put over something to test the wisdom of her choice. If she finds that she has picked a fleal Ripsnorter she's tickled pink. But if he proves to be nothing but a Stuffed Shirt—

Well!!!

So make some rights for yourself, Jim S., and make 'em pronto or it's the dog kennel for you!

And the same general philosophy goes for wives. If you make a doormat of yourself, sister, someone will surely kick you around. And you'll only have yourself to blame.

New York Day by Day

by O.O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, April 18—Where are the Adam's apples of yesteryear?

One out of the proverbial six used to be distinguished by this Lincolnian symbol. Today it seems you cannot scare up a half dozen on the whole of Manhattan Island. Their disappearance is likely responsible for the low collar.

There is something typically American about the Adam's apple. It smacks of the plow, the spring-seated farm wagon and furrowed fields and has the fascination of a loose tooth. Some had an adagio movement—slow, leisurely and rather graceful.

Others had a quick bobbiness like a cork in the choppy waves. In a way the Adam's apple was a barometer of human emotions. A mercurial quickness presaged joy, grief, love and hate. And a slowly rising and falling movement indicated a mental calm.

There was scarcely a stage comedian without an Adam's apple. It somehow gave striking emphasis to comedy—like baggy pantaloons or splay feet. The older generation of financiers—like the older Rockefeller, for instance—almost invariably had 'em.

Now the financier has a plump neck with a pillow or so fluting over the back of his collar. At the moment I can recall only one industrial giant with the rather primitive protuberance and he is Henry Ford. I just telephoned one academic theorist about the phenomenon.

He advanced a plausible idea. He said it had been observed most tobacco chewers had Adam's apples and this may have been caused by the constant drain of saliva drying up certain glands. With the big decrease in tobacco chewing, necks may have bloomed again.

In wandering into scientific fields, I seem to have become hopelessly balled up. I might easily have asked: What has become of the Adam's apple?—and let it go at that.

But as you grow older you grow garrulous. And garrulities fill space.

ONE of the fine old houses in the Fashionable Fifties bears a brass sign at its door reading: "The House of Facial Care." Some faces hereabouts must be a care, too.

AND it is estimated New York women spend two millions a year solely for facial massages.

AN amateur magician has been performing a trick at private parties that has added more graying hairs to this tottering observer. He will place a deck of cards on the table and leave the room. You select any card you desire and hold it so no one else in the room or the magician himself can see it. Then he asks you to name any friend that comes into your mind who can be reached by telephone. You call him yourself and ask what card you hold in your hand. If he names, say the eight of clubs, that will be the card you are holding. I have seen it click six times out of six. A few more times and I'll be off for a little sanitarium spool playing.

IN the window of a house bearing a sign, "Boarders," on upper Avenue J, is a card reading: "Sheets changed Wednesday and Saturday. Parlor sitting up to 10 p. m."

A SMALL department store on the same street heralds: "Bargain basement on the second floor."

OH, THESE WOMEN!

By Leola Allard

A GROUP of travelers in northern Ireland, including two Chicago girls, escaped death in a landslide. You don't have to travel expensively to do that. There was a terrific landslide in Chicago the other day, and all the women and children escaped. It's a gallant city. Mrs. Minnie Goranson killed her police sergeant husband there and she is now declared eligible to receive a widow's pension. You needn't talk about Chicago. It's the one spot where chivalry is making a last stand.

Peggy Watson is merely a Mrs. in Paris, but in New York she is a duchess. Anyway, being a duchess in Paris isn't half the fun of being a duchess in New York. On several previous occasions Peggy became engaged and lost her man each time to one of her friends. Then she took a correspondence course.

While American women are going to Paris to get unmarried, the women on the other side might start the fashion of coming to America to get married. We have some perfectly lovely Gretna Greens. And the judges will get up at any hour of the night to help a girl outdistance conscientious objectors. This is the country for women. What on earth they go "over there" for I can't figure. And as for the Peggys—America simply dumps whole jewelry stores into their laps.

The first question of Baron von Huenefeld's mother when she heard he had landed on a frozen island far from anywhere was: "Can he get milk and eggs?"

And bless these mothers! They get up in the middle of night when their boys are babies to heat the milk. They stand over a moulding board for hours making animal cookies, and after school their boy and the other boys come in and empty the jar. They follow them later with their prayers and hopes and good wishes.

It's the kind of fuel furnished by the baron's mother and Col. Lindbergh's mother that carries airplanes across the Atlantic ocean.

After courting a girl for years and asking her 20 times 20 times to marry him, being refused firmly each time, Gordon Ramsay got a marriage license, steered the girl into a church and they were wed. Now he wonders why he didn't think of that a long time ago.

This self-reliance and boasted independence of women is mostly hokkum. A strong he-man comes along and they look cross-eyed, and get limp and affirmative.

some care, then making the best of the "egg" you select.

Often the "egg" rejected by a first wife becomes the cornerstone of another and happy household.

There is good in all eggs and in all men. The thing is to find it, cultivate it and improve it.
